Molotov was virtually ignored as he voted at a polling place near the Kremlin. Once Stalin's right-hand man, Molotov was premier in 1930-31 and foreign minister in 1939-49 and again in 1953-56. Khrushchev ousted him in 1956.

Both Molotov and Khrushchev voted for Khrushchev's successor as premier, Alexei N. Kosygin, who was running for the time at a country home outside Moscow.

$12.2 Billion In War Costs Given Okay

House Committee Cuts LBJ Request By $62.5 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war in Vietnam got a $12.2 billion shot in the arm today from the House Appropriations Committee, which said there is "no reasonable likelihood" that the fighting will end by June 30.

The appropriation, subject to action by the House Thursday and by the Senate probably next week, is for use during the remaining months of the fiscal year ending June 30.

The amount is $62.5 million less than President Johnson requested, but none of the cut was applied to major weapon programs.

More than half the total, $6.29 billion, was earmarked for procurement of airplanes, munitions, vehicles and communication.

Eau Claire County Judge

Knowles Appoints Court Justice

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau MADISON — Connor T. Hansen, Eau Claire County judge for the last 10 years and lifelong Republican, today was chosen by Gov. Warren P. Knowles to succeed Justice Myron Gordon as a member of the State Supreme Court.

Gordon, a Democrat, has been named to a federal district judgeship.

Hansen, 52, is a University of Wisconsin Law School graduate and has been elected to the county bench twice since his original appointment by former Gov. Vernon W. Thomson 10 years ago.

He was one of the judges and lawyers suggested as qualified for the appointment by the Judicial Selection

Committee of the State Bar of Wisconsin two weeks ago. Knowles said the appointment put on the state's highest bench, for the first time in many years, a man with probate court experience. He

Justice Hansen did not mention the fact publicly, but it also was known that he had been interested in appointing a new court member from upper Wisconsin, which has had sparse representation lately. Hansen has been district attorney of his home county and before his elevation to the bench was active in Republican affairs.

Knowles also named Thomas Barland, 37, widely known former Eau Claire County assemblyman, as county judge to succeed Hansen.

Hansen will be required to run for election in 1970 for a 10-year term to begin the following year.

Knowles said the selection for the state court was "most difficult" because of the quality of the nominees advanced by the bar for the appointment.

President To Leave Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will leave late Saturday for Guam to attend top-level meetings with United States officials on the war in Vietnam. The White House announced Saturday night. He is expected to arrive Monday, Guam time.

The strategy include, though not expected to include South Vietnam Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, is regarded as another attempt to dramatize the U.S. military and civil development to Ky's war-torn country.

Ky attended Johnson's last two Pacific conclave — at Honolulu in February 1966 and at Manila last October.

But sources indicated the Guam session, announced Saturday, to Saigon Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William Westmoreland, commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam.

Johnson is to leave late Saturday and arrive early Monday Guam time.

George Christian, White House press secretary, said the meetings are expected to last "a short time — a few days at the most."

It is not expected that any major change in U.S. policy will come out of the meeting, but that emphasis will be placed on slowly increasing military pressure and intensifying attempts giving up the support of the white people. This, it was said, would make him an even bigger hero in the Negro community.

One factor that reportedly indirectly influenced his decision to quit, it was understood, was a statement by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King said in Hartford, Conn., Sunday night that Meredith's campaign against Powell in Harlem is ill-timed. King said past few days by stepped up that it would be much better for ground action and air strikes the House to seat Powell again against North Vietnam's because of what he termed pal steel mill. Surprise Announcement

Meredith Bows to Pressures, Won't Face Powell on Ballot

NEW YORK (AP) — James H. Meredith, a civil rights martyr who drew the wrath of many Negro leaders for opposing Adam Clayton Powell, suddenly pulled out of the special congressional race today. He apparently gave in to growing pressures.

In a surprise post-midnight announcement, just as stunning as his entry into the race last Tuesday as the choice of Republican leaders, Meredith offered no explanation for his withdrawal. He declined to elaborate on a one-sentence statement: "I have decided not to run in the 18th Congressional District."

Some Harlem sources said that Meredith, an independent Democrat, bowed to pressures from civil rights leaders. There also were reports that Powell, through intermediaries, had been appealing to Meredith to drop out.

The appeals were said to have been made on grounds of a need for Negro unity. Meredith reportedly was told that by accepting the Republican nomination to run against Powell, a Democrat, he would be the white man's candidate.

Sources said Meredith was told that he could make an even more dramatic gesture by sure and intensifying attempts giving up the support of the white people. This, it was said, would make him an even bigger hero in the Negro community.

One factor that reportedly indirectly influenced his decision to quit, it was understood, was a statement by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

U. S. Hits Hard In N. Vietnam

Electricity Center North of Hanoi Target of Bombs

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes made their heaviest strikes against North Vietnam in four months Sunday, concentrating their strongest attacks on an electric power center 32 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Seizing upon breaks in the weather, the American fighter-bombers from Thailand unloaded tons of bombs on the Viet Tri power complex, sending black and brown smoke billowing 3,000 feet in the air and visible in Hanoi.

Although Hanoi radio itself, U.S. jets hit the capital itself, a U.S. spokesman said the Viet Tri strike was the only one in the Hanoi area. Apart from hitting the power complex, American fliers struck only at anti-aircraft gun positions in the immediate area, he said.

Gaullists Squeeze by With Narrow Majority

PARIS (AP) — French voters at least one in the full Assembly mauled the prestige of President Charles de Gaulle's government badly Sunday and left dates' political labels indicated the Gaullists had won only 243 seats, while the combined opposition had 241 or 242. French political experts varied in their assessment of the situation.

The President's personal tenure was not affected, he having been elected in 1965 for a seven-year term. But whether De Gaulle will have a "governable" assembly will have an important hinge on a bloc of at least 30 and possible 42 seats controlled by Jean Lecanuet's Center Democrats. NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indira Gandhi was sworn in as prime minister of India again today and announced a new cabinet she hopes will lead the crisis-ridden country "on the path to progress."

Members of the ruling Congress Party in Parliament unanimously re-elected Mrs. Gandhi their leader Sunday.

Mrs. Gandhi, 49, began a five-year term with the party severely weakened by last month's elections. It will have only 282 of the 520 elected seats in the new Parliament opening Thursday, a majority of only 44, compared with 364 of 494 seats in the old legislature.

Girls Find Vast Change in Attitudes During College

CHICAGO (AP) — Seniors of a Roman Catholic girls college are "more secular, more cynical and noticeably less pious" than they were as freshmen, a statistical study reports.

The study of Mundelein College's 1966 graduates was made to determine the effect of a college education on students' attitudes. Results were disclosed in a report sent to the college's alumnae.

Complicated Questionnaire In 1963, freshmen at the college completed a questionnaire designed to survey their attitudes on everything from religion and politics to social status and study habits. A second questionnaire was sent last year to 96 of the same girls.

The girl who graduated last June "was a radically different young woman from the girl who entered in September 1962," said Dr. Norbert J. Hruby, vice president of Mundelein, in the report made public Sunday.

"Freedom, participation and involvement had become the central ideas in their lives," he said.

Attitudes Change As seniors, Hruby said, young women became more concerned with civil rights, foreign policy, especially the war in Vietnam, and less worried about Communist subversion.

When they were tested in 1966, the girls indicated they took the teachings and practices of the Church on several topics — including obscenity, fasting, abstinence and birth control — much less seriously than they did as freshmen.

Devotion to Others As freshmen they generally felt that the best indication of the value of a person was "whether or not he or she had good habits and avoided sin," but as seniors this concept changed to "whether or not he or she is devoted to the welfare of others," Hruby said.

Girls who were "conservative, cautious and prudent" as freshmen had become "more liberal, apostolic and humanistic" as seniors, the report concluded.

Sheinwold Cautious Expert Is Neat

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes people snicker at the bridge expert as being the sort of person who wears both a belt and a pair of suspenders. It may be true but when the game is over, the expert goes home still wearing his pants. Only an expert would manage to play today's hand without having to make a rush call on his tail.

Harold Ogust, one of America's great players, let the first trick ride around to the queen of clubs in his hand. Then he naturally went after dummy's spades—but in precisely the right way.

Ogust cashed the king of spades and next led the queen of spades. When West followed

This play would cost a trick if East could follow suit, but then the spades would break favorably. Declarer could give up a spade trick and get back to dummy with the ace of clubs to take the rest of the spades. He would then have five spade tricks, one heart, one diamond and two clubs.

Bag Break
As it turned out, the spades broke badly. There was no way to develop and cash the spades even if declarer stood on his head. It was for just this reason that Ogust had "wastefully" played dummy's ace of spades: he could now lead twice from the dummy to set up the diamonds in his own hand.

Ogust led the 10 of diamonds from dummy, and it didn't matter what East did. If East

If Ogust played the spades "normally," he would be able to lead diamonds only once from the dummy. East would not cover the 10 of diamonds, and declarer would lose two diamonds and three clubs.

Answer: Bid four hearts. You have 18 points in high cards and 2 points for the doubletons, with very powerful support for partner's major suit. Even if partner has the minimum holding of 6 points in high cards and a weak 4-card heart suit there should be a reasonable play for game in hearts.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Have you ever heard of "Bop the Bunny"? Well, neither had I—until yesterday.

Some local people decided there should be more "togetherness" between fathers and sons, so they organized a Hunt Group. Since most of the boys were too young for guns (under 10 years of age) the "hunters" decided to use rocks and sticks as weapons.

The idea of the game is to make a human chain across a field and let the dogs loose to flush out the rabbits. As the rabbits run out of the brush to escape the dogs, the fathers and sons hit the defenseless creatures with sticks and rocks. The good aimers who land fatal blows are the heroes of the game. They call it "Bop the Bunny."

My first reaction was "those poor rabbits," but then I began to think "those poor children!" What a tragedy to be brought up to believe it is fun to beat helpless animals to death.

I contacted the Humane Society and asked why they allowed such cruelty. The reply was, "There is nothing they can do about it." I'd like to know why not.

Please tell me what you think about this game. I have been arguing with people since last Sunday. You'd be surprised at the number of folks who think it's perfectly all right.

Charleson, S.C.

Dear Charleson: I checked with the Humane Society in about this game. I have been arguing with people since last Sunday. You'd be surprised at the number of folks who think it's perfectly all right.

I decided to shovel the walk anyway. An hour later I received a phone call from one of the sisters ordering me to stay off their property and mind my own business.

I ask you, Ann Landers, does it pay to be nice to people? — Insulted

Dear Insulted: Yes, it pays to be nice to people. Moreover, it can be downright rewarding. But — when the people are a little chuckoo, anything can happen. So please don't let these two dollies sour you on the Ten Commandments. What else can you name that still works after more than 3,000 years?

Do you feel ill at ease... out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Chicago and learned that the authorities of their National Headquarters took legal action to try to stop "Bunny Bopping" in North Carolina but the judge ruled that the society had "no right to meddle." The Illinois conservation laws, on the other hand, would not tolerate "Bunny Bopping."

In all fairness it must be conceded that rabbits can pose a threat to a rural economy just as rats can be a problem to urban society, but when this occurs the rabbits should be exterminated in a humane manner. To make a game of beating rabbits to death and to call it "fun" is utterly indefensible.

Pythians Give Style Show an Irish Swing

Pretty fashions included those with a touch of Irish green and a dash of spring lightness at the St. Patrick's Day Luncheon and Style Show sponsored by the Pythian Sisters, Zenith Temple 31. The event was held at 1 p.m.

Thursday at the Knights of Pythias Hall. There was some English flavor on the scene when two Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh students in mini-skirt and low-hipped slacks rode a bicycle onto the stage. The program was concluded with an Easter Parade featuring spring hats. Music for modeling was provided by Mrs. Isabelle Feavel, pianist. Mrs. James Forster was the soloist. Modeling the spring fashions were Mrs. Henry Staedt, Mrs. Donald Jury, Mrs. Walter Koester, Mrs. Paul Tusler, Mrs. Arthur Krause, Mrs. Gerald Wagner, Miss Carla Christen and Miss Louise Cole.

Fashions at the St. Patrick Day Luncheon and Style Show, sponsored by the Pythian Sisters, Zenith Temple 31, were designed for occasions from evening dinner dances to country bike rides to Easter parades. Models, above, are Mrs. James Forster, Mrs. Harold Christen, Miss Louise Cole, Miss Carla Christen and Mrs. Arthur Krause. A luncheon serv-

Anger Triggers Tension; Strain Causes Head Pain

NEW YORK — What's your "boiling point?"

If you're in the age bracket 10 to 25, your anger susceptibility is at its lowest; if you're 40 to 60 years old your rage capacity is highest; if you're above 60 your disposition has begun to sweeten again and you're easier to get along with.

These are generalizations, of course, but they are based on scientific research.

Here are some other facts about temper that may surprise you:

Mealtime Temper

Studies show that people most often lose their tempers just before mealtime. At home, mild marital spats are likely to break out before breakfast, while violent outbursts happen before dinner.

If you are a chronic worrier, you probably fly off the handle easily, especially at home. That's because the physiological patterns of both anger and fear — the nervous impulses sent to the brain — are similar.

Artists, opera stars and actors — whose egotism is easily hurt — appear to have the worst tempers. If your job demands great concentration and utmost accuracy, it's likely that your dander is easily aroused.

Are redheads more hot-tempered than others? One study concludes that they are not.

Harmful Effects

Medical science has long been intrigued by temper and its effects on the physical and emotional health of the individual. That anger has harmful effects, there can be no doubt. Research has shown, for example, that a hot temper can be a major contributing factor to frequent painful headaches.

What makes you hopping mad? One researcher showed that generally it's some form of frustration, resentment or restraint that kindles your anger. It may simmer until something trivial — maybe an innocent remark of your husband that you consider insulting — makes you reach your boiling point.

You don't always realize why you blow up, whether it's at your children or your neighbor. The actual reason may be a deep-hidden self-dissatisfaction, or some unconscious fear. Outwardly, you may think you're angry because you're being "pushed around," you've been kept waiting for an appointment or someone rudely crowds in front of you in line.

Know Boiling Point

From past experiences, every woman should realize what kind of temper she has. Some of us have a low boiling point, others miraculously seem to keep calm in the face of irritation, disappearing in a puff of smoke.

Under the emotional stress of anger, the average man or woman becomes distracted, inattentive to what's going on. At work, people lose their physical coordination, and accidents can result. This is true on our highways also.

Brooding, hidden anger — when it's suppressed too long — is costly in terms of strain and fatigue. There is plenty of evidence that it can actually make you ill. Dr. Alan A. McLean, a psychiatric consultant, points out that "since society frowns on loss of control over our feelings, we subconsciously channel our anger into physical symptoms — an illness is more socially acceptable."

Headaches are socially acceptable. The stress-frustration-anger pressures that women encounter in everyday life often result in the nervous tension, or muscle-contraction headache. Simply stated, here's what happens: the anger or nervous tension causes the neck muscles to tense up, which in turn brings on the head pain. Pain causes more tenseness, which causes more pain. The tension-pain cycle must be broken before she gets relief.

Medicines help the pain but no product can completely handle the burning anger that wells up in a person. He must face up to this, analyze it and take appropriate action.

What's a safe way to manage your rage? Generally, psychiatrists agree, it's best to blow off steam rather than store up your emotion too long. Temper is a form of outlet to rid your system of grudges, envy and hate. Suppressed anger only builds up health-sapping tensions.

Senseless Rages

On the other hand, you can't go around displaying senseless rages. What, then, is the most reasonable way out?

The familiar device of slowly counting to 10 has some basis as a quick remedy because it distracts you long enough to take the edge off your temper. But this trick is superficial: your anger is probably deep inside.

The key to control, says Dr. McLean, is a "healthy conversion of anger." Play tennis, take a brisk walk, mow the lawn, or exert yourself at household chores.

When you realize that you're angry, you might try asking yourself, "What am I angry about? Is this the real reason? How does the other person feel? Can I do anything about the situation? If I can, why don't I get busy? If I can't, why don't I try something else?" Chances are you'll discover that you're making a mountain out of a molehill. Or the real reason, once you pause to analyze it, may be something that happened days or weeks before.

Emotions are part of reality and we should recognize anger as a normal emotion. But we should also remember that we are responsible for controlling it.

Eat Often, Oftener

BY SYLVIE REICE

Would you believe — there are teens — legions of them — whose problem is that they're too thin! "I think it's unfair," writes Patty L. of Dayton, Ohio, "how everybody's always handing out dieting advice to fat girls. What about us under-weight ones? We need help, too."

Actually, you'd be surprised at how many letters like Patty's

I get. And so, in answer to her plea, I've gotten in touch with a dozen "skinny" teens and asked them what their tricks for gaining weight are. I'm including only those which are sensible; those teens who said they eat gooey desserts and chocolate bars (at the expense of their complexions) I eliminated. Here, then, are "fattening" ideas straight from the teens' own experience!

Eat Oftener

"The best way to gain weight is to eat often, oftener, oftener. Along with three big meals, I get three meal-sized snacks," Jenny L., Chicago, Ill. "I make my breakfast in the blender. I load it up with egg really terrific, he probably yolk, wheat germ, powdered milk, milk, molasses! It all Juan but can't help it for goes down fast that way," Sheila R., Dear Park, L. I. "I sleep more. Nine hours every night. And I take a nap when I get home from school," John S. Miami, Fla.

Instead of a gooey dessert, I eat fruit. Then I follow up with bread and butter and jam," Lola S., Chicago.

"I keep a load of cold cuts in the refrigerator, that way it's easy to make sandwiches quick-ly as between-meal snacks," Naomi S., Baltimore, Md.

Snack Bag

"I pack a bag of snacks for school. Wedges of cheese, prunes, a small box of raisins, small peanut butter sandwiches, sometimes even a Thermos jug of milk," Barbara L., Philadelphia, Pa.

"I got my doctor to give me an appetite-producing tonic. It really worked. I didn't have to force myself to eat," George S., Philadelphia.

"I take a snack to school, have one when I get home, another doing homework, another at bedtime. It's working; I'm gaining," Rose R., Baltimore.

"I make myself get up 20 minutes earlier in the morning. That way I didn't have an excuse to skip breakfast. I eat a large breakfast now — bacon, eggs, toast, milk," Sandy L., White Plains, N. Y.

"I throw powdered milk into every glass of milk I drink and them what their tricks for gaining weight are. I'm including only those which are sensible; those teens who said they eat gooey desserts and chocolate bars (at the expense of their complexions) I eliminated. Here, then, are "fattening" ideas straight from the teens' own experience!

TEEN QUESTION BOX: "I have a friend Mark, who keeps taking my girls from me. I don't get it. In every other way he's loyal, generous, terrific. What should I do?" Jim S., Philadelphia.

One, don't let him get near your girls. Don't double-date. I don't go to parties together. Keep your friendship strictly in the male realm of sports, conversation, etc. If Mark is blunder, I load it up with egg really terrific, he probably yolk, wheat germ, powdered milk, milk, molasses! It all Juan but can't help it for goes down fast that way," Sheila R., Dear Park, L. I. "I sleep more. Nine hours every night. And I take a nap

'Ring' in Fashion Jewelry

This year, more than ever, it's the ring that accents fashion.

Bigger than big the new rings are deep in dimension, texture and body. There seems to be no limit to the finishing designs manufacturers are giving gold, and one of the most striking for depth and airiness in rings is a new porcupine, or burr-like, texture.

To contribute to the over-all impression of body, many feature a shank composed of three rows of gold. Another prized style is the heavy ring of rope-textured yellow gold with pave diamonds set in rows. The eternal gem of light, the diamond, is combined with other precious stones in all hues.

Continuing the trend of last fall, new and interesting stones are being used, such as chrysoprase, sardonyx, lapis-lazuli, topaz and amethyst. Opals are soaring in popularity, particularly those rich in blue and green hues. Huge single stone rings swing for the Mod side with aquamarines, smoky topaz quartz, amethysts and Linde Stars. Enamel and stone combinations continue strong in fashion's favor, with enamel rings becoming a prized accessory. The growing demand for fine enamel rings has resulted in more artistic designs, skillfully trimmed to accent and enhance the beauty of the ring's stones.

Pearl rings, especially those combining black and white pearls, are luxurious essentials in every woman's jewelry collection. Pearls mated with rubies, sapphires and emeralds make dramatic springtime splendor. And the Tahitian pearl ring — a bewitching blend of black and white mother-of-pearl — has taken its place as an established jewelry piece.

On the delicate and demure side are cameo rings, and sparkling single stones mounted in intricate golden settings. Birthstone rings remain high in sentiment. The popular antique and heirloom designs, along with the magnificent multi-colored rings, complete the spring round-up of rings — fashion's most impressive and important accent.

Byrnes Asks HUD To Act on Water

Supports Appleton Information On Abatement of Pollution

Rep. John Byrnes, R-Green Bay, today urged federal officials at Chicago to take "prompt and favorable action" on Appleton's $1.5 million water grant application.

He made his request to Edward Bruder, acting director, the regional office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Byrnes said that Appleton officials last week filed additional information which Bruder has requested at a joint meeting of city and state officials at Chicago three weeks ago.

The city's application for the water grant, which would help finance a $4.5 million Lake Winnebago pipeline and filtration plant expansion, was filed with the regional HUD office last year.

Efforts Being Made

Byrnes told Bruder, after studying copies of the information sent him by Appleton officials, that every effort was being made to abate Lake Winnebago pollution on local, regional and state levels.

Byrnes also cited that money to be spent on equipment for the expansion would serve a double purpose because most of the facilities could be utilized if and when Appleton decides to eventually go to Lake Michigan.

Lake Michigan was the first choice of water consultants and Winnebago, the second. However, it was determined the city could not afford a Michigan pipeline project, and with a serious water problem, had to go to Winnebago as a stop-gap measure.

Consultants have given assurance the city will obtain improved quality water from Winnebago, compared to the present Fox River source.

Byrnes impressed upon federal officials the information sent them by city officials was in the form of letters and affidavits from consultants and others in official capacity.

Permanent Improvement

The permanency of the proposed improved water treatment plant is evidenced by the statement of the engineering firm of Alvord, Burdick and Housen, Byrnes said.

"They stated the present plant, with improvements, will be a permanent installation regardless of whether the source of raw water supply is changed at some future time from Lake Winnebago, as now proposed, to taking the supply from Lake Michigan," Byrnes added.

He noted the engineers said the expansion project could meet Appleton's water needs until the year 2,000.

"Due to the critical nature of Appleton's water situation," Byrnes declared, "I urge your prompt consideration of this supporting evidence and your favorable action on the matter of requesting a fund reservation for this project."

Only 3 React In Schools to TB Testing

Outagamie Nurse Reports Check Of 2,218 Children

Results of recently completed tuberculin skin testing by the Outagamie County nurses office show only three positive reactors out of 2,218 children tested.

Children in rural schools are given the tests in the program conducted by county nurses with the cooperation of the Outagamie County Tuberculosis Society on the first, fourth and ninth grade levels. Of 2,630 eligible students in the three grades, 2,218 took the test.

No new reactors were found among 510 students in the ninth grade; two were found among 815 children in the fourth grade group; and one was found among the 893 children tested in the first grade group.

If a student has a positive reaction to the test, the county nurses office refers him to his family physician for a follow-up examination which usually consists of x-rays and a more extensive skin test.

A positive reaction doesn't mean the child has tuberculosis, only that he has the disease microbes in his body. Most persons who have positive reaction to the skin tests never are stricken with active tuberculosis.

The tests included all county school children, except for the cities of Appleton, Kaukauna and New London, plus the Seymour area schools, Black Creek, Nichols and Oneida.

Youth Passes Out From Liquor Drunk In Appleton Apartment

A 15-year-old Appleton boy whom a patrolman found passed out on the sidewalk in the 500 block of W. College Avenue Friday night, told authorities he and two other youths were drinking liquor at the apartment of a brother of one of the youths.

The young Appleton boy at first told police he had been served a beer and 10 mixed drinks in a downtown tavern. The youth and his parents were interviewed by juvenile authorities Saturday.

Record Field Registered for Annual Soap Box Derby Test

With nearly three weeks remaining before deadline for races and the national championship race in Akron, Ohio, Fox Cities Soap Box Derby, a Paul Hesse, last year's Appleton record number of 150 boys have signed up for the race, according to Thomas E. Nooyen, publicity chairman.

The number is the highest ever for this city and makes the Appleton event the second largest in the Midwest, Nooyen said. The only city in this part of the country which has shown a greater number of entries in a Soap Box Derby is Kansas City, Mo.

Derby officials have announced they will attempt to get 200 entrants before the March 31 deadline. If the 200 goal is achieved, they said, Appleton's race would be the largest in the nation's Midwestern states.

Cities Urge Earlier End for Study

Representatives of several Wisconsin cities, including Appleton, are pushing to have the councils should be headed by State Legislature and Gov. Knowles set one year as the timetable for studying state aids and shared taxes.

A bill calling for a special committee to take two years, reporting back by Jan. 1, 1969, has been attacked by members of the Alliance of Cities.

The legislation was adopted by the state Senate last week but the final vote in the Assembly was postponed until a delay until sometime this week.

Legislators opposing the two-year time limit for the study

the governor and lawmakers at Madison. And Raymond E. Puddy, president of the Fond du Lac Common Council, wrote the governor and legislature, pointing out that "time is of the essence in establishing a man-ner in which property tax relief can be given to cities throughout the state."

Officials of the state's 20 most populated cities feel studies of the legislature to take up urban problems — including the tax question — this fall.

The Appleton Council acted last week by passing a special resolution which was sent on to legislature to hear them out.

Appleton on Brink Of Landing Industry

City Planners Approve New Nursing Home

100-Bed Facility Will Be Built East of St. Elizabeth Hospital

Plans for construction of a $1 million nursing home on Appleton's southside were revealed today at a meeting of the city plan commission.

The 100-bed facility, fronting on Madison Street, will be located east of St. Elizabeth Hospital and south of Fremont Street on a 53,500 square foot tract. Representatives of K. T. Wakefield and Associates, Inc., Milwaukee developers, received 25-acre site fronting on Glendale Avenue, has made a verbal commitment to meet the asking price for the property.

Will Blend

The developers said the new nursing home would blend in with the area, and not present an institutional appearance. Except for the setbacks, the plan meets all of the city code requirements for nursing home construction.

All-Points Bulletin Issued on Youth Who Left Hospital

An all-points bulletin has been put out to Wisconsin law enforcement agencies, alerting them to be on the lookout for the 16-year-old Appleton youth who left Appleton Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon.

The youth, who has a cast on his left hand and arm, was being treated for severe hand cuts incurred when he allegedly put his fist through an apartment window on College Avenue early the morning of March 5.

Appleton police expressed concern because the youth, who is on parole to the State Department of Public Welfare, could aggravate his injury if he does not receive further medical care. The youth is scheduled for further surgery.

Planners Suggest Purchase of Old Airport From County; Want Buffer Strip to Isolate Homes

The City of Appleton today appeared to be on the brink of landing a new industry after the city plan commission recommended rezoning the old Outagamie County airport land for industrial purposes.

At the same time, the commission stipulated that an attractive buffer zone be created along Ballard Road for a depth of about 70 feet for the protection of residential areas to the west.

The commission took its action at the urging of the city council's newly-created Commercial and Industrial Development Committee.

Build Plant

Ald. John MacDonald (7th), committee chairman, said a firm which indicated interest in erecting a $1 million plant on a 25-acre site fronting on Glendale Avenue, has made a verbal commitment to meet the asking price for the property.

However, it would appear the development of the 153 acres of airport land will have to be a cooperative project between the city and Outagamie County, with the former adding to its tax base.

Sylvester Esler, county board chairman, said the county wants to sell the old airport property to the city, and indicated the $450,000 or so asking price could be paid-off on installments over a 10 to 15-year period.

Esler said the county was not interested in just selling the 25 acres. He thought the city should become owner of the property and sell it off as the industrial park expands.

Area Ideal

"This is an ideal area for a new industrial park," Esler told the commission and other city officials. "It is the kind of a setup Appleton needs if it wants to get any new industry."

In conjunction with the rezoning recommendation, the commission also asked the board of public works to meet with county board officials as soon as possible to negotiate for purchase of the land.

The county board will convene Tuesday, and again in April. MacDonald said the new plant, which would also provide the city with a sizable addition to its tax base, which admittedly, has been ailing in recent years as by the result of some firms locating outside the city in so-called "tax island" areas.

Both Walter Rasmussen, city planner, and Eugene Franchetti, representing the Fox Valley Regional Plan Commission, said the old airport site would be ideal for industrial development. They emphasized the "green Wisconsin Avenue and N. Division" buffer should and would be included in any plans to develop the area.

MacDonal and others said the stipulation for the buffer zone would be acceptable to concerned and was meant specifically for the protection of residential owners on the shall A. National Cities Meeting

League President Urges Fight Against Urban Ills

WASHINGTON — The head of the National League of Cities (NLC) — representing 14,300 communities — urged the federal government today to rally the resources of America for a massive attack on urban ills.

Mayor Harold M. Tollefson, Tacoma, Wash., in his presidential address prepared for delivery at the opening session of the NLC's third annual national conference here, said:

"Our national program now should be to initiate, by presidential proclamation, and by subsequent congressional endorsement, a comprehensive analysis of our total urban needs during the balance of this century, identified in 10-year intervals.

Should Analyze

"Such analysis," Tollefson continued, "should specify the logical program and cost components of a comprehensive national plan to bring our urban communities, and the opportunities for their citizens, in line with the aspirations of the people of America."

Based on this knowledge, the President should submit to congress, not projects or programs, but a plan for a national commitment to satisfy the identified needs within a specified period of time. That plan should be accompanied by an earmarking of specific and sufficient resources to see the task through to completion. Tollefson likens such a national commitment for the rebirth of the American city to that made by the United States in 1961 to put a man on the moon by 1970.

Recalling the National League of Cities' convention resolution last December which called for a national commitment to cure the most pressing urban ills by 1976, Tollefson added:

"The random process of as-signing national resources to denial proclamation, and by subsequent congressional endorsement, a comprehensive analysis of our total urban needs during the balance of this century, identified in 10-year intervals. Piecemeal, superficial, sporadic attacks on our plight will do little more than provide the thin coat of whitewash. Our logical program and cost components of a comprehensive long-term and total. It must be a national commitment to the rebirth of the entire urban complex."

About 1,000 mayors are attending the two-day legislative conference here. City Manager Henry Buslee is representing Appleton. Green Bay, Sheboygan and Fond du Lac are tied needs within a specified period of time. That plan should be accompanied by an earmark-

Chapel Filled to Hear Valley Symphony Play

BY ROBERT BELOW

Of Lawrence University. Karlos Moser conducted the Fox Valley Symphony's second concert of the season last Sunday night before an audience that nearly filled Lawrence Chapel. So many listeners must have been a welcome sight to conductor and orchestra, and gratifying to those who were responsible for enlisting such support. It is good to know that it can be done.

Each work opened new areas of tonal color, along with fresh problems of adjustment. These problems were met with considerable success, reflecting the most notable improvement in the orchestra's playing since we heard it last December. In the past, its playing has often been every loud or very soft, but Sunday night there were numerous fine graduations between these extremes.

Achieve Balance

Balance between instruments, another serious problem, was far more deftly negotiated than in the past, and this in a program which called for a good deal of care and even subtlety. The performance of Debussy's "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun" was a notable achievement for our orchestra.

To forestall a question, no, it did not sound like the Philadelphia Orchestra. Does anyone pretend that a group barely a year old should sound like a mature orchestra of long tradition, with the highest-paid players in the country? Let us not be spoiled by high-powered recordings.

Hayden's "104th Symphony" was the big opening work, and it, too, was a fine achievement, though there were some tentative moments and less than perfect clarity. Haydn often sounds easy, but anyone who has played Haydn in public knows that it is not. Every-thing is exposed, and the director cannot hide behind orchestra color or fancy interpretations.

Moser didn't try. His reading was simple and sturdy, his tempo relaxed and steady. The brilliant minuet movement pressed his listener most.

Beautiful Arias

Soloist in Brahms' "Alto Rhapsody" and in two arias by Saint-Saens was mezzo-soprano Jean Kraft, New York, a native of Menasha. She was beautiful to look at, in a brilliant blue-green gown, and a pleasure to listen to. Her voice has a contralto richness in its lower register, and the music exploited this, though we were not aware of any voice weakness.

The Brahms, a dark and serious work, was well projected, and the orchestra's involved accompaniment expertly prepared. The Saint-Saens arias were rich, warm, and compelling.

Prokofiev's familiar march from "Love for Three Oranges" finished off the evening — twice, in fact. It is so brief that conductor Moser let us hear it again as an encore.

The orchestra will present a concert for school children at 3 p.m. April 22 at James Madison Junior High School. Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" is included on the program.

Venetian Day To be Expanded In Twin Cities

Paperland Festival To be July 1-4 for Stay-at-Home Fete

NEENAH - MENASHA — Plans to expand the annual July 4 Venetian Festival to a community-wide four-day "Paperland Festival" were announced today.

The July 1-4 festival will be jointly sponsored by the Neenah-Menasha Jaycees, Boys Sports, Inc., and the Chamber of Commerce of Neenah-Menasha in cooperation with Twin Cities Industries.

Officials said the Paperland Festival is being planned and designed not only to entertain Twin Cities and area people but also to provide for a safe stay-at-home weekend.

The four-day event will feature dances, exhibits, fireworks displays, rides, games, concessions and climax with the Venetian Parade. The coordinated activities will be held in both Menasha and Neenah.

Open Houses

Industries are planning open houses at various plants to show the people the many and varied products manufactured in the Twin Cities. As the theme "Paperland Festival" implies, it will be aimed primarily at paper and allied industries.

The celebration will open at noon Saturday, July 1, with the start of the annual Boys Sports picnic and close with the revamped Venetian parade. The picnic, at Jefferson Park in Menasha, will run through Tuesday, July 4, and will feature children's rides, concessions, beer gardens, a rock and roll dance for teenagers and a polka night for the oldsters.

The polka night, jointly sponsored by Boys Sports and the Jaycees, will feature a national Jaycees, John Ricker, Venetian ly-known polka band. The annual City of Menasha fireworks display is planned for Monday night, July 3 at Jefferson Park.

The celebration will wind up on Tuesday, July 4 with the Venetian parade sponsored by the Jaycees. Throughout the

Chaplain Writes of Missionary Work Near War Zone in Vietnam

Chaplain Capt Luke Krizenesky, O.F.M. Capuchin, a native graduated from Menasha High School where he played in the Crescent from his post in Vietnam.

According to the latest news from the Vietnam front, Father Krizenesky is only about 28 miles from the fierce action in which took place Saturday, 14 miles southwest of Saigon between a battalion of helicopter-lifted U.S. infantrymen and a Viet Cong force.

The chaplain's letter follows: "At the present time I am located in Long Binh. This is a small town and may not be on your maps. Bien Hoa is very near, and that should be on the map; about 13 miles north of Saigon and a little to the east. This is the place where 'Charlie' (as we call the Viet Cong) (VC) likes to sneak into the ammunition dump and blow it up."

He has done this on several occasions. The last time all the windows in our post exchange were blown out and merchandise scattered all over the floor. The shock of the blast knocked over one of the sisters at our orphanage here when the door of the convent blew off.

Blast Hits
And when you consider that the convent is five miles from the ammo dump you get an idea of the intensity of the blast. At the time, I was about one mile from it and looking right at the big yellow ball of fire as it blew. Of course I ducked, and then the big shock hit which even rattled the windows in Saigon.

Fortunately, only about four men were injured, and no one killed, although Peking Polly reported that 110 Americans were wiped out! She is the counterpart to the World War II Tokyo Rose. We also have Hanoi Hanna, and I listen to them from time to time just for laughs. You'd be surprised how many times I found out that this entire area was wiped out.

We have several convents, monasteries, schools and orphanages in the Long Binh area, and we try and help the people with your gifts. We have distributed hundreds of pounds of food, clothing, candy and soap in the past months.

The chaplain usually spends several days a week teaching English to the school children and priests and nuns. The people do amazingly well with their English — better than their teacher does with Vietnamese! Americans have a dual purpose over here, liberation and pacification. A great stress is put on the latter, known as civil affairs. We want to help the people help themselves and we see less bug-infested thatched huts and more plastered brick houses with metal roofs. They are brightly painted and quite attractive.

Cleanliness is a must if we are to prevent disease, so we try to put soap into the hands of the people and teach them how to use it. We take every precaution to keep it off the black market by unwrapping it prior to distribution. Sweaters are worn here, but rarely. We do have some chilly mornings of about 70 degrees; then the people wear sweaters. Packages take about two months to get here and since the weather is usually hot and damp, perishable foods should not be sent. Hard candy, canned baby food (for children as well as the wounded who are not able to eat solid food) are ideal.

Any gifts you may wish to send can be mailed to the Office of the Group Chaplain, Hq 29th General Support Group, APO San Francisco, 96491. You can be proud of the American soldier, because he is a courageous, mature and generous individual. The other day I walked through one of our wards and came upon a lad who had been hit by an enemy grenade in the chest and both arms. His arms were in casts and his buddy, in the next bed, had been hit in the legs.

Smoking became a problem for the first man, so the other lad got a three-foot piece of wire and fed him smokes by "long distance." They were cheerful and anxious to get back to their units in the field. The Vietnamese people appreciate the work the Americans are doing over here, and appreciate the packages you send. Please remember to pray for all of us over here. Prayer is always a welcome gift and is not perishable.

Annex Suit No Closer to Court Date

MENASHA — The Town of Menasha suit against the City of Menasha involving the city's attempt to annex 180 acres from the town apparently is no closer today to being set for trial than it was six months ago.

The action was brought by the town in 1965 and is the only remaining litigation between the two governmental units.

Last September, Circuit Judge Andrew Parnell of Appleton, before whom the trial is to be held, urged attorneys for the city and town to request a prompt trial in the matter. He said today he has not heard from either attorney. "I've been available for the last eight months," he said.

Neither Menasha City Atty. Richard Steeffens, nor George St. Peter, special attorney for the town, were available today for comment on progress in the case.

As a result of the contested action, both the city and town are carrying the 180 acres on the tax rolls, and tax bills were sent out to property owners in the area by both the city and town.

Winnebago Lawyers to Rate Judge Candidates

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County Bar Association members have voted to conduct a qualifications poll on judicial candidates who will be running in the April 4 election, it was announced late this morning.

Bar Association President Gerald Engeldinger said qualifications ballots were being sent to the approximately 100 attorneys in the county today and were to be returned by next Monday. Candidates to be rated are Justice George Currie, Circuit Judge Robert Hansen, Winnebago County Judge James Sitter and Herbert Mueller and Atty. Thomas Williams.

Thirty-six of 59 attorneys who returned cards on whether the qualifications poll should be held favored the poll. This will be the first such poll ever conducted by the county bar.

Firemen Make Three Runs in Appleton Sunday

Fire that apparently started in a paperboard rubbish container damaged the interior of a garage at the Robert Heegeman home, 824 S. Telulah Ave., about 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Firemen said some contents in the unattached garage also were burned. Firemen remained at the scene about an hour.

At 8:40 p.m. Sunday, firemen went to the Hugh Hessler home, 524 E. Parkway Blvd., when a smoke smell was reported in the home. Firemen found that a malfunctioning dish washer was smoking.

A davenport cushion burning under a porch brought firemen to the Tom Lison home, 522 N. Lawe St., at 9:37 a.m. Sunday. Firemen, who used a booster line in extinguishing the minor blaze, said it was not known how the fire started.

Retired Appleton Pharmacist Dies After Heart Attack

Joseph J. Pompa, 63, 515 1/2 N. Durkee St., a retired pharmacist, died at his home about 2 a.m. today.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps attributed death to a heart attack. Kemps said Pompa had been under treatment for a heart condition for several years.

Pompa retired as a pharmacist at Belling's Pharmacy last July. The body was released to the Bretschneider-Trettin Funeral Home.

Seek Crossing Guard At St. Joseph School

Appleton police are seeking a man or woman interested in working as school crossing guard at Elm and Lawrence Streets.

Police said they have made several unsuccessful attempts to find a guard for the St. Joseph School area. The crossing guard would work from 7:30 to 8 a.m., 11 a.m. to noon, and 3 to 3:30 p.m., five days a week except during school vacation periods.

Assessor Cost To be Examined

OSHKOSH — Which costs the most, the present system of local town assessors or a central county assessor? This is what the Winnebago County Judiciary Committee is seeking to determine for the county board, possibly in time for Tuesday's board session.

At the February board meeting, supervisors voted 26-16 against endorsing a proposed bill which would eliminate local assessors in towns and communities of less than 10,000 population in favor of a county assessor office. But then the board referred the bill to its Judiciary Committee for further study.

The committee's findings may have little bearing on the final outcome of the bill in the legislature since the last public hearing on the bill was held Feb. 21 and indications are that the proposal may die in committee.

Oshkosh Town and Gown

Exuberant Winnipeg Ballet Dances Into Hearts of Capacity Audience

BY DAVID F. WAGNER

OSHKOSH — A precise command over most of the intricacies, coupled with the exuberance of youth, made the appearance of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet here Sunday night a rare treat.

Currently on a critically acclaimed U. S. tour, the Canadian dancers came to Oshkosh as a part of the Town and Gown Blue series performance opposite Clouser, a attraction and left as good friends of the nearly - capacity Civic Auditorium house (1,500).

The three-part program began with "Amees Vour Bach" choreographed by the company's Brian Macdonald and presented in rehearsal clothing on a bare stage.

Set Pace In this opening new, Sheila Mackinnon (as the new girl) set the pace for what would prove to be her night to steal the show, though not upstaging the other dancers. The red-haired cutie is comical when needs be, but proved quite adept at straight ballet.

The movements of the ballerina were perhaps too spasmodic for this role, as though she was anticipating her later portrayal of the girl in "Don Quixote de Deux." Her partner in each routine was David Moroni, a virile lad of grace with an assured command over every move he made.

The Bach inventions concluded with what was billed as "a genuine surprise ending." A modern frug, during the fugue, was certainly surprising, and it was skillfully worked into the context of the routine, longest of the evening. Miss Mackinnon was the primary instigator of the frug rebellion, which caused James Clouser (as the maestro) some grief.

Part of Future State Program

Propose Dorm for UW Center at Marshfield

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A drive has started for the construction of dormitories at the University of Wisconsin's two-year centers scattered throughout the state, aided by the request of a Marshfield Assemblyman and the statement of center system Chancellor L. H. Adolfson to the UW Board of Regents.

The construction of dormitories at centers of the UW has been recommended against by the staff of the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education in a provisional master plan prepared for approval by the state's highest educational agency.

Assemblyman Raymond Heinzen, R-Marshfield, appeared before the Regents to ask that they consider constructing a 100-bed state - backed dormitory at his hometown center.

Heinzen pointed out that a unique nurses' training program operated at the center, at which students in a registered nurses course study for the first year at the local center and then transfer to a Marshfield hospital for advanced training, has resulted in a large number of students from outside of Wood County enrolling at the school.

Need Backing Heinzen said that he has approached the CCHE and the state Building Commission regarding his plan, and said that for its operation, formal Board of Regents' backing would be required.

The dormitory would be financed through the commission and state bonding corporations, and state bonding corporations, which he hoped would be self-financing, as student rental fees would eventually repay its construction cost.

Heinzen was given implied backing by Regents' president Arthur DeBardeleben, who pointed out the Marshfield Center has grown rapidly in recent years and is the only UW higher educational opportunity in north central and northwestern Wisconsin.

Adolfson said dormitories for some of UW's 11 centers is a future aim of the center system.

He said that enabling students from other areas of the state and world to study in local areas would "diversify the student bodies in the interest of an enriched, more cosmopolitan educational experience."

The Center System also seeks to increase the percentage of out-of-state and foreign students enrolled in the centers to the extent that narrow provincialism can be avoided without denying attendance to qualified Wisconsin youth," he said.

He said that such steps would aid in providing student experiences comparable to the state's four-year universities at the freshman-sophomore centers.

White will serve as the principal aide to Weinert in planning the development of the new school, and will head the work to combine the Marinette, Fox Valley and Manitowish two-year centers into the four campus UW-GB.

The UW-GB administration will assume administrative responsibility for the existing two-year centers in the area on July 1, 1968.

Plans in call for closing the center in Green Bay in 1970, but the remaining three centers will continue operating in what Weinert terms a "four campus university."

White will be in charge of planning and construction and financial and development activities for the new campus complex.

Vander Heiden expressed pleasure at the amount collected and praised volunteer workers who assisted in making a complete canvass of the area, which they received the volunteer workers.

among other city officials. That is why the stipulation for the park-like buffer along Ballard Avenue was made.

"This, gentlemen, is something the city cannot afford to sit on," Macdonald declared, referring to the offer to purchase the land at the old site for new plant construction.

"I must assume with this much money going into such a project, it will be an attractive-looking building as are modern industrial plants today," Macdonald commented.

Macdonald warned unless the city did act with some expediency, it faced the possibility of losing the industry. "The last thing in the world I would like to hear is that Appleton lost out because it dragged its feet," Macdonald asserted.

Need Tax Base "God knows this city needs the tax base," Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), a committee member injected. "If we goof on this now, our chances for the future will be hopeless."

Kalata and others on the committee pointed out that Appleton has had local industrial expansion but no new major industries locating here over a long period.

Use Your Imagination to Make Original Book Covers

BY CAPPY DICK

A book cover that will arouse much curiosity when friends see it on your desk is today's fun-project for boys and girls. As shown in the adjoining drawing, the book bears a collection of objects that are not ordinarily a part of a cover. Glued to it are such things as a coil of clothesline, some pebbles, a nut and bolt, twigs, a jackstone, a small spoon, a paper clip, a key and some pieces of wire.

In answer to the question, "What in the world is it?" you can explain that it is an abstract sculpture.

Get your family's permission to use a book. It may even be an old catalog; in any case, use only a book that otherwise would be discarded.

Collect as many small objects as possible to glue to the cover. The goofier they are, the better. Arrange them in a pattern that pleases your eye, then glue them in place, using strong china mending cement.

When the glue has dried, the book is ready for display.

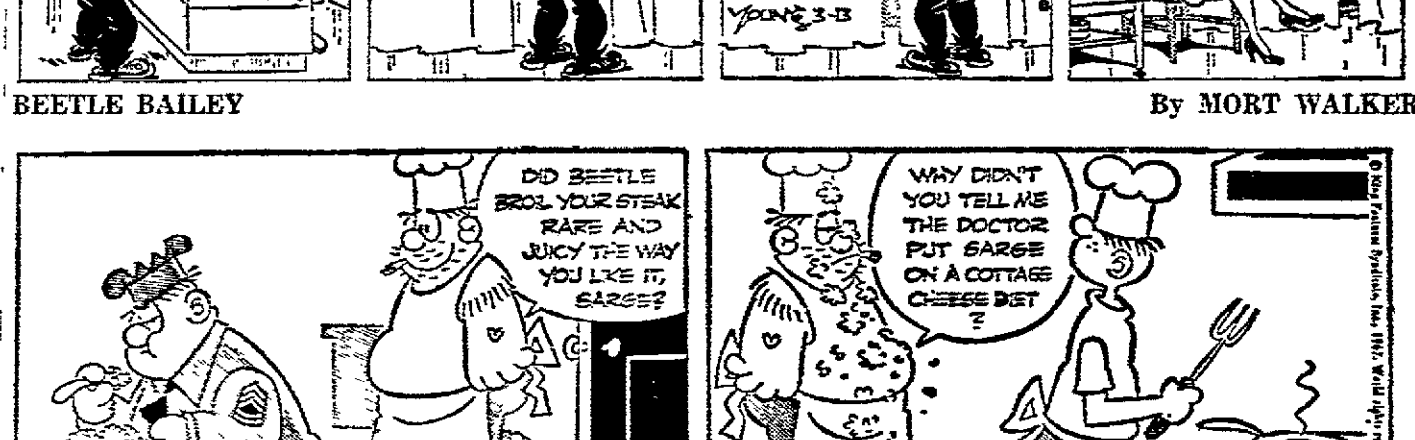

TOMORROW: A neat way to display all your snapshots!

High-Scoring Jim Walker Leads Friars

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Al McGuire had said his Marquette basketball team would have to perform well in the first half if it hoped to win its first-round test in the National Invitation Tournament.

And that is exactly what the Warriors did — they and Bob Wolf.

"Wolf took the sting out of Tulsa's zone early in the game," McGuire said Sunday while reviewing the Warriors' 61-60 victory Saturday night.

The conquest of Tulsa places Marquette against Providence in the quarterfinals Tuesday night. Providence defeated Memphis State 77-68 in the first round.

McGuire said Brian Brunkhorst and George Thompson carried much of the Marquette load in the second half, but that Wolf was the first-half spark.

"His outside shooting was phenomenal," McGuire said. "He hit six of his first seven shots."

Take 21-7 Lead
Wolf, who scored a total 23 points, sparked the Warriors to a 21-7 lead. Tulsa ended the game with a rebound advantage—48 caroms to Marquette's 44, but was unable to get out of the hole dug by the Warriors early in the test.

"I think our defense had a lot to do with it," the coach said. "We forced Tulsa to take some real tough shots."

Tulsa's leading scorer, guard Eldridge Webb, was held to 15 points. The losers hit only 34 per cent of their field shots, and were held to 19 per cent in the first half.

Marquette, however, was shabby from the free throw line, getting only six of 16 attempts while Tulsa hit 16 of 19.

"This was our worst night all year at the free throw line," McGuire said.

Marquette's biggest challenge Tuesday is Providence's Jimmy Walker, one of the nation's leading scorers averaging nearly 30 points a game.

Walker, a guard, scored 37 points against Memphis State.

Marquette takes a 19-3 mark against Providence's 20-6.

In quarterfinal games today, Southern Illinois meets Duke and Nebraska faces Marshall.

New Mexico faces Rutgers in the other quarterfinal Tuesday.

Minnesota Picks John Michels as Grant's Assistant

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings announced Sunday night that John Michels, 36, will take a defensive coach position with the National Football League club.

Michels, who has been a coach with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Canadian Football League since 1959, turned down an offer to become head coach of the Bombers.

Harry P. (Bud) Grant, the Bombers' head coach for the past 10 years, was named Saturday to succeed Norm Van Brocklin as head coach of the Vikings. Michels had been Grant's top assistant at Winnipeg.

At Winnipeg, Michels had over-all charge of the Bombers' defense and also coached the offensive line.

Michels, an offensive guard at Tennessee, was named to The Associated Press All-America football team in 1952. He played with the Philadelphia Eagles in 1953, and rejoined the Eagles in 1956 following two years in the Army. In 1957 he went to Canada and spent two years as a player with the Bombers before taking the coaching position.

Off to his fastest start in 17 seasons as a pro, the 47-year-old father of seven is determined to win a spot on the Ryder Cup squad which meets England's top professionals in October.

"There's not much money in the Ryder Cup, but it's worth a lot in prestige," Boros added after picking up a $23,000 check for winning the Citrus crown, his second title payoff of the year.

No Definite Plans
"That would be a great way to bow out, beating the English," Boros said, but later he added that he had no definite plans to retire.

"I used to retire every Monday and made a comeback every Thursday," said Boros, who with the rest of the Orlando contenders will play in the Jacksonville Open which starts Thursday.

Boros, now second on the 1967 official golf money list with $43,300, needs 10 points to break Hull's record of 97 in a season last year.

He and Arnold Palmer are the only two double winners of the pro tour this year, and Boros already has made more money Sunday and is a cinch to reach than he did in any year since the 50-goal plateau for a third time.

Glenn Hall, who recorded his second shutout of the season in the clincher, and Dennis DeJordy have a virtual lock on the Vezina Trophy for allowing the fewest number of goals scored, New York and Montreal each picked up a point on the Maple Leafs in the battle for second place. The Rangers and Canadiens played a 2-2 tie with third period goals by John Ferguson and Gilles Tremblay bringing Montreal from behind twice.

Rhineland Duo Takes Class C Lead in Tourney

FOND DU LAC (AP)—A 587 series rolled by Jean Carbone of Kenosha's Petreitis team helped boost her squad into second place in the Class A team standings in the state women's bowling tournament Sunday.

Irene Moritz of Rhineland had a 494 series and teammate Ollie Sonstagen a 476 set as they took the lead in the Class C doubles competition. The class is for game averages of 120-139.

Singles, Class B — First, Barbara Sharrack, Fond du Lac, 567.

Finished Second
The Hawks could laugh now, but it wasn't funny in recent years when it looked as if they were going to win but ended up finishing second by one point in two different seasons.

Back in 1926-27, Major Fredrick McLaughlin purchased the Portland Rose Buds and moved the team to Chicago, where he named the Black Hawks after his World War I battalion.

Pete Muldoon was the coach. McLaughlin fired Muldoon and Muldoon pointed a finger and cursed the Hawks saying they would never win a National Hockey League championship.

Neither Muldoon's curse nor the combined efforts of the famed witches in folklore could deny this band of Hawks.

Led by Mikita and Bobby Hull, the Hawks have six players among the league's top 10 scorers. Mikita needs 10 points to break Hull's record of 97 in a season last year.

Lincoln Tops Field

MADISON (AP) — Lithe and lean Milwaukee Lincoln, hungry for a second straight Wisconsin high school basketball crown, leads a glittering eight-team field into the annual state tournament starting Thursday at the University of Wisconsin.

The top-ranked Comets, one of the most explosive prep teams ever put together in Wisconsin, are a top-heavy favorite to become the first in state history ever to win successive titles a second time.

Lincoln, a 96-84 winner over a superb Racine Park team in sectional finals Saturday night, was state champion in 1961 and 1962.

The Comets, who face 10th-ranked La Crosse Central in the tournament opener Thursday, will be seeking their fifth title in nine seasons while trying to extend their unbeaten record in the Madison games from 12 to 15.

"Definitely not," replied Lincoln Coach Jim Smallins when asked if he believed the Comets would make a rout of the tournament. "It's a strong field, I took a look at the teams and I got half scared to death."

The eight teams have a combined won-lost record of 167-18. Besides Lincoln (22-1) and Central (23-3), others on the glory road include Green Bay West (20-3), Platteville (23-0), Barron (22-1), Wausau (21-2), Appleton (16-7) and Whitefish Bay (22-1).

Central gained a berth by beating Baraboo 65-64 on baskets by John Ford and Steve Flaten in the final 18 seconds.

NBA Strike Still Threatens

Oscar Foresees Players Jumping to New Circuit

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Oscar Robertson, basketball superstar and president of the National Basketball Association Players Association, sees storms ahead for the NBA, whether or not the current pension squabble is settled without a threatened player boycott.

Robertson, after Cincinnati's 120-119 loss to the St. Louis Hawks Sunday, said, "My feeling is a lot of players are going to jump to the new American Basketball Association."

And, he admitted, he's among the players who have been contacted by representatives of the new league.

San Francisco's Meschery Suffers Broken Hand

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's Warriors take on the Detroit Pistons in a National Basketball Association tilt tonight, but without Tom Meschery, who broke his hand in extra-curricular combat.

The 6-foot-6 swift forward mixed it up early in the fourth period Saturday with Los Angeles Laker Darrell Imhoff, while suifling for a rebound, and came away with a hairline break in his right hand.

"I read in a Cincinnati paper I was making too much money, anyway... well, they probably won't have to worry about that too much longer," he said, adding that his future plans were not definite.

NBA players have threatened to boycott the league playoffs unless they are granted a $600 monthly pension for men with 10 years in the NBA. Club owners reportedly are willing to give $500.

But, Robertson said, "the problem in a nutshell is that we want the plan retroactive for players now in the league."

Players Back Threat
Ten-year players who have retired receive $200 monthly under the league's current, three-year-old pension plan, which is not retroactive.

Len Wilkens, St. Louis representative of the Players Association, says the players have taken a vote and are "100 per cent" behind the boycott threat.

"We're fighting for what we want," he said.

Robertson, commenting on NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy's statement that the players are obligated under their contracts to play in the post-mixed it up early in the fourth season series, confided:

"So what if we're bound by our contracts. Workers at General Motors take a vote to go on strike. I don't see why we can't."

AHS' Tourney Tickets to Go on Sale

Appleton High School's quota of state basketball tournament tickets will go on sale to students on the priority list, squad members' parents and season ticket holders from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m. today at the Seims' gym office.

Students, who must turn in parental permits, will have access to these tickets: (1) Two hundred reserved duets for the season in which AHS plays Thursday and Friday—with bus transportation and game tickets costing $9.50, and (2) Four hundred general admission tickets for Thursday afternoon and evening, Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon with the total cost amounting to $12.

Remaining tickets will be sold Tuesday (from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m.) on a first-come basis in the Seims gym. AHS officials said this morning.

The scandal broke in mid-December when assistant athletic director Mel Brewer, bypassed as a successor to Mils, reportedly revealed the existence of the fund to Dr. Henry.

Dr. Henry then made an immediate report to the Big Ten, placed football Coach Pete Elliott and basketball Coach Harry Combes on probation and prohibited athletes involved from further competition.

Big Ten athletic director met and ordered the university to fire Elliott, Combes and assistant coach Howie Braun or face suspension or expulsion from the conference.

Dr. Henry appealed the case to the faculty representatives on the basis the punishment was "too harsh." The faculty group upheld the directors, ruled five athletes permanently ineligible.

Dr. Henry called a charge that he knew about the fund "a total untruth."

Doug Mills, former Illinois athletic director who resigned Dec. 1, a couple of weeks before the scandal broke, was quoted by the Chicago Sun-Times that Dr. Henry "knew as much about the fund as I did."

Columbus Irv Kupcinet asked Mills if he knew about the fund and Mills was quoted as saying, "Let's just say that I and others at the university just looked the other way. And that includes Dr. Henry."

Financial Aid
Mills also was quoted as saying, "That $21,000 over a five-year period is peanuts compared to funds some of the conference schools are expending in extra financial aid to athletes. They've made a mountain out of a molehill in the case of Illinois. And Dr. Henry has contributed to this."

Mills also was quoted as saying he had nothing to do with starting or administering the fund.

In reply, Dr. Henry said, "That Mills knew little about the fund and its operation is belied by investigators and witnesses on record both from the Big Ten and the university's staff."

He added, "That anybody at a higher administrative level than himself, including me and my faculty representative, had any knowledge of the fund or of the improper activities is a total untruth."

Mills could not be reached for comment on Dr. Henry's statement.

Bill Reed, Big Ten commissioner, also could not be reached for comment.

Not everyone can do that, but top-flight agents can. That's why top-flight agents make handsome incomes. If you're that kind of man, we can teach you a bright new approach to top earnings. I'm serious about it.

MUTUAL BENEFIT LIFE

The Golden Goose Is Dying

Some of us were shaken up last month when it was announced in Washington that unless Congress raised the debt limit by some $8 billion, there wouldn't be funds to pay veterans' pensions, Social Security payments and other such obligations of the United States Government. Somehow a lot of Americans simply considered that there would always be money available and anyway Congress did obligingly raise the debt limit.

But, as Congressman Melvin Laird pointed out in a slightly different context, some of the grants and matching fund programs of the federal government actually extend the pollution of our waters. The reason is that every community which has applied for federal funds for a variety of projects duly authorized by Congress can't get the money because there isn't enough. The local or state governments then refuse to move on their own to provide the needed facility on the grounds that eventually federal funds will arrive. The same thing is true in some college construction. Qualifications for the much publicized funds have been met by a great many institutions and for a great deal more money than is available with the result that the whole matter has been frozen for over a year.

Of course there is something basically dishonest about proposing new and even more grandiose payments to those who qualify for various reasons when those of the past have not yet been fulfilled. Even if the programs have been conceived in recognition of real needs, the descriptions have led many of us to believe that the cash was readily available. This is a little like ordering a lot of things on the installment plan when a simple budget shows that the payments cannot be met. Even in deficit financing, there is a limit set by law.

There is no simple answer to the problem but one way that could help would be to return to the state some of the income taxes collected with no strings attached. Then at least state officials, often far more responsible to their constituents than those in far-off Washington must be, can know what money is available immediately and what must be raised by the states or local communities for important construction.

Liberals and conservatives have both become concerned about the growing interference of the federal government in the affairs of the individual, the programs and policies of lower units of government and in an orderly economic system. The overwhelming growth of federal bureaus and agencies has also meant a top heavy inefficiency that denies equality of programs and policies to all Americans and especially those who need help the most.

Decentralization is not merely a nice phrase. It is becoming absolutely essential.

United We What?

It used to be a reporter's joke that if there wasn't any news, he was expected to go out and make some.

And that is what Senator William Proxmire seems to infer that the press and television are doing about difference of opinions over American policies in Vietnam.

"Not only does the President share the Mansfield and Kennedy objectives of achieving peace as soon as possible," said Senator Proxmire in a Senate speech, "but the President and the Senators, who have spoken out constructively on Vietnam, share in great detail almost every aspect of what the United States must do to achieve that objective."

Senator Proxmire did not include Senators Fulbright or Hatfield in his list of those who had spoken out "constructively" but he did mention both Senators Mansfield and Robert Kennedy by name. And yet can he deny that only last week Senator Kennedy called for the immediate halt to the American bombing of North Vietnam

A Word to the Wise

All would-be criminals should let a word to the wise be sufficient: recent Supreme Court decisions were intended to protect only those individuals who are truly deserving of being protected, not persons trying to avoid the long arm of the law.

The cases, of which those involving Ernesto Miranda and Danny Escobedo are the most famous, hold that an accused person must be informed of all charges placed against him, that he be informed also that it is his constitutional right to remain silent on any and all subjects and that he be given an opportunity to obtain — and in some cases have provided for him — an attorney before undergoing any police interrogation.

Courts, however, have held that a person who knows — or should know — that his constitutional rights are on hand no recourse to a plea of foul play on the part of police. Miranda and Escobedo both were undereducated at best and, as a point of fact and law, did not know what the whole thing was about. Their ignorance turned out to be a blessing, for their convictions were overturned. Miranda recently was reconvicted of the earlier Arizona rape charge against him but Escobedo went free of an alleged Illinois murder and at last report was keeping the law busy down in Florida.

An enterprising accused criminal about two years ago, recognizing the trend of the cases, tried to have his felony conviction overturned due to the fact that he had not been informed of his constitutional rights. The justice, however, found that he had attended law school for a year and thus knew — or should have known — what his rights were. And in Ohio, the Supreme Court last week ruled that a police officer questioned in a criminal case does not have to be advised of his rights of silence or to counsel.

In other words, if you know your rights you do not have to be reminded of them. And if you are reading this, the chances are that henceforth you will know — or should know — what the Constitution provides.

Reconstruction Act Called Wicked

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post-Crescent for March 2, 1867

"The Reconstruction Act" passed through Congress under the whip and spur of the partisan drill is the first grand step toward the ultimate subversion of Civil government in this Republic, and the establishment of a military despotism in its stead.

Martial law is the "ipse dixit" the word of command, of the senior officer. It is, as Lord Wellington termed it, the absence of all law. It is the order promulgated at a press parade, enforced by a corporal and a file of the guard.

Such is the system of government devised for 10 American states. State lines are obliterated, five military districts created with a Brigadier General at the head of each; no man can whisper a sentence at variance with the views of despots over him under any subject whatsoever under pain of imprisonment, hanging up by the thumbs, talking a beat two hours off and two hours on for a week or a month with a bag of shot sand on his back.

Such is the paternal and benevolent system of government devised for men who were born as free as we of Wisconsin, and whose crime was that, like the Revolutionists of 1776, they tried to set up an independent government more to their liking.

Because they dared to rebel against a good government is no reason why, after they have submitted, abandoned their wickedness are living quiet, peaceable and orderly lives, they should be deprived of the inherent right of self-government and be placed at the mercy of a military despotism. Radicalism has strange freaks, and this last one must convince all doubters that its settled purpose is the overthrow of free government on this continent.

Romney Bid for Lodge's Support Is Embarrassing to Ambassador

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

News accounts notwithstanding, an impeccable source informs this writer that when Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was home in January he had no intention whatever of terminating early his Vietnam post.

Taylor

Of course, Mr. Lodge could change his mind, but it would require a complete change of mind and nothing could surprise his intimates more. An unrevealed problem does exist, however, in quite another direction.

Behind the scenes, for various reasons, the Gov. George Romney for President forces are now making an intense effort to enlist Lodge's support. The result leads to certain embarrassments.

A Romney Associates Newsletter is being distributed from Lansing. And an alarm bell has been rung among Lodge intimates by the Romney Associates' reprinting of a headlined piece: "Lodge Favors '68 Romney Bid." The article has the earmarks of a plant in a Massachusetts-based newspaper.

Admittedly, the Michigan Governor finds his unclear stand about the Vietnam war a drag both inside the Republican party leadership and at the public level. That's Lodge's area and this makes Lodge uniquely valuable to Romney.

Next, Lodge is identified with what's usually called the Eastern Establishment. The Romney Associates have made it evident that they think the man Romney must beat for the Presidential nomination is a man the Eastern Establishment will not back: Richard M. Nixon.

Mr. Nixon, in turn, estimates that in terms of party structure the Republicans have a 25 per cent better chance to win now than in 1960, when he and Lodge lost by less than 1-10 of one per cent of the popular vote. Then the G.O.P. had only 14 governors and controlled both legislative houses in only six states. Today the Republicans have 25 governors and control 19 state legislatures.

Mr. Nixon's standing in the Central, Southern and Western parts of this party-structure, and at the delegate level, is widely conceded to be superior to Romney's.

Accordingly, Romney is largely dependent for his power base on the so-called Eastern Establishment. This of course, is the stamping ground of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The assumption is that Mr. Rockefeller would never go for Mr. Nixon — and certainly not for California Governor Ronald Reagan. Who can Rockefeller back if he does not back Romney? And his gratuitous and carefully prepared public display when he all but endorsed a Romney-Javits ticket is the kind of signal that politicians remember.

But there is a profession in which the giving and taking of promises is a tricky business. If Romney falters, what then for Rockefeller? Most G.O.P. leaders I have talked with seem to feel that he and the Eastern Establishment would then turn to freshman Illinois Sen. Charles H. Percy.

Romney's problem, which grows more pressing with each passing day, is not to falter. The line-up of Lodge in a Romney front with Rockefeller would clearly be a Romney plus.

HERE'S THE RUB

Now comes the rub. Lodge intimates insist that the Romney Associates' circulation of what appears to be a commitment of Lodge to Romney is a mauling of the facts, an unauthorized (by Lodge) piece of political strategy, and an embarrassment to Lodge which Romney himself could hardly condone.

Romney did meet with Lodge when Lodge was home in January. Lodge briefed him on Vietnam and he has also briefed so many visitors to Saigon. But Lodge intimates are alarmed by the zealous Romney Associates' attempt to put Lodge in bed with the Michigan Governor or any other Republican hopeful at this time.

Lodge is President Johnson's Ambassador. Every Ambassador knows that any President has a right to expect his Ambassador not to become a party to the opposition while on the job. Lodge has not violated this requirement, nor would Romney himself expect him to.

The Romney Associates have put Romney in the awkward position of "deliver me from my friends." Nixon, who ran with Lodge in 1960, is in the position of wondering what cooks with Lodge? Lodge is in the position of hoping that President Johnson sees through the unauthorized ploy.

Lodge intimates have informed Lodge in Saigon. And they say, he welcomes the whole thing like an attack of galloping cholera.

Speculation on GOP Governor Candidates Includes Froehlich

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — As the conviction spreads in both political parties that Warren Knowles is the logical and fairly certain nominee of the Republicans for U.S. senator in 1968, the question of the Republican gubernatorial succession is increasingly discussed in all party circles.

Wyngaard

The friends of Lt. Gov. Jack B. Olson, no doubt with his encouragement, have assumed since 1964 that Olson will make a strong bid for the Republican organization endorsement for the first post-Knowles nomination. Indeed, Olson had made his gubernatorial thrust in that year. He bowed out only after Knowles decided to run. He accepted the nomination for the lieutenant governorship with the implicit idea, as he then saw it, that Knowles backers would return the favor at a later time.

Yet there is nothing certain about Olson's success, as the profession of politics is notoriously uncertain always. No doubt he would be a formidable contender, on the basis of his affectionate relationship with the last several delegate conventions. But if the nomination is desirable in 1968 — if the party appears to have a good chance to win, as the signs now portend — there will almost surely be some rivals, and dangerous ones.

IN THE WINGS

Reporters know no more about these things than do other citizens interested in political events and prospects.

But they are typically exposed more directly to some of the clues and the evidence and thus they can indulge in some educated guessing.

One of the most useful clues is the press agency activity of some of the leading men on the statehouse stage. When a man who holds a modest little legislative seat, representing a small fraction of the people of Wisconsin, suddenly becomes concerned about statewide press exposure and retains the services of press assistants it means that he is broadening his horizons and discreetly displaying his ambitions.

Lt. Gov. Olson has a press assistant in his office. The law allows him an executive assistant. Like most politicians, he knows that a man who knows something about the ways of the media and the techniques of publicity can be more helpful to him than anybody else likely to be available.

But there are others making such arrangements. en. Jerris Leonard, of Bayside, the Republican majority leader in the State Senate, is among them. Last summer Leonard briefly considered a candidacy for attorney general, with the idea that it would be the best stepping-stone to the executive office. But he finally concluded that an encounter with Bronson LaFollette would be too risky. He resolved to follow the legislative caucus, and his capture of the top rank there illustrates the brilliance of his planning.

OTHERS ALSO WAIT

Similarly, Sen. Robert P. Knowles, the Senate president, probably sought that new rank — which is a constitutional state office — at least in part on the chance that it might give him more identity and stature that might be useful in a future gubernatorial campaign.

In his situation, however, there are two visible handicaps, with respect to a 1968 bid. His State Senate term expires in that year, and he would be required to forfeit his coveted place in legislative politics to make the attempt. Perhaps more relevantly, the party would probably hesitate to run a Knowles for governor while another sought the senate seat.

Probably the most interesting of the hints emerging from the capitol lately are those surrounding youthful Speaker Harold Froehlich of Appleton, the presiding officer of the State Assembly. His speaking itinerary, his publicity management, his strenuous effort to identify himself with the conservative elements of his party, as well as the tentative talk of his friends suggest that if the circumstances in the 1968 convention provide a reasonable opportunity he may be among those contending for the top nomination of his party.

There may well be others passing out hints at the off-year party convention in Eau Claire two months hence.

Daddy isn't very good at math because "he doesn't have a head for figures," but Junior gets poor grades in math because "he's lazy and won't apply himself."

If I don't cotton to a person, it's enough reason for me that "I just don't like his looks," but if a person doesn't like me, I complain that "he has no reason to feel that way."

I am "diplomatic"; you are "smooth-tongued"; he is "two-faced."

I am all in favor of dissent as long as it is "responsible" — but I want to be the one to

What parents call "a harmless prank" is what they would call "vandalism" if they read about strange children doing it.

When I am seeking mercy, I remind you that Jesus enjoined us to return good for evil; when I am seeking vengeance, I remind you that Jesus scourged the money-lenders out of the temple.

A "crisis" is any sudden development in international affairs that shows how short-sighted or pig-headed the foreign offices were; and a "resolution" of the crisis is a mutually unsatisfactory agreement by which the foreign offices gain a respite until the next crisis.

A "man of the world" is generally one whose world excludes 90 per cent of what is real in human existence.

I overbid my hand at bridge because I am by nature "optimistic"; you overbid because you are "rash"; he overbid because he is "egotistic."

When you are defending what I want to change, you are just defending "the status quo"; when I am defending what you want to change, I am defending "tradition."

What's Powell to do? He'll get pinched if he goes to New York and snubbed if he comes to Washington — and in Bimini he's losing at dominoes.

Powell's friends say he wasn't allowed to cross-examine witnesses against him. It's true — in fact the committee couldn't even cross-examine Powell.

Tar Heels Tip Duke To Gain NCAA Bid; Blue Devils to NIT

North Carolina to Face Princeton; UCLA Smashes USC to Finish 26-0

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

North Carolina's proud Tar Heels get another chance to twist the Tiger's tail this week—but Duke's disappointed Blue Devils are going to the dogs.

And Duke's Vic Bubas thinks these particular dogs—the Salukis of Southern Illinois—will bite just as sharp as they bark.

North Carolina, the nation's No. 4 college basketball power, downed the Blue Devils 82-73 last Saturday night for the Atlantic Coast Conference title and a berth—opposite Princeton's fifth-ranked Tigers—in the NCAA championships.

Princeton handed North Carolina its first setback of the season last December.

Duke settled for the open spot in the National Invitation Tournament at New York, where the Blue Devils will collide with Southern Illinois' small college titans tonight in a quarter-final contest.

"Great Team"

"I repeat what I said before the ACC finals," said Blue Devils Coach Bubas. "The ACC team playing Southern Illinois will be the underdog. Every body who has seen them tells me they are a great team."

The Saluki is an Egyptian hunting dog—similar in appearance to the Greyhound—whom the Carbondale, Ill., school adopted as its athletic symbol in 1951.

Last Thursday night, the Salukis established their knishp with the greyhound by racing past St. Peter's, N.J., 103-58 in their Madison Square Garden debut. The margin of victory was an NIT record.

Underdogs pulled off several surprises in both the NCAA and NIT Saturday, with Dayton's 69-67 overtime victory over sixth-ranked Western Kentucky in the nationals and Rutgers' 78-76 NIT ambush of Utah State among the major upsets.

Princeton Slays Alive

In other NCAA first-round action, Princeton whipped West Virginia 68-57; seventh-ranked Houston nipped New Mexico State 59-53; ninth-ranked Boston College got by Connecticut 48-42; No. 10 Texas Western eliminated Seattle 62-54; Virginia Tech upset Toledo 82-76 and St. John's, N.Y., ousted Temple 57-53.

Providence, led by Jim Walker's 37 points, trimmed Memphis State 77-68. New Mexico edged Syracuse 66-64 and Marquette topped Tulsa 64-60 in the NIT.

Unbeaten UCLA, the nation's No. 1 team, wound up its regular season by smashing Southern California 93-55 for a 26-0 mark as Lew Alcindor tossed in 26 points. The Bruins start their NCAA bid Friday night against Wyoming's Western Athletic Conference champions.

Tough Road to Victories

North Carolina earned a rematch with Princeton by knocking off North Carolina State, Wake Forest and Duke in the ACC tourney. Larry Miller's 32 points paced the Tar Heels past Duke in the final.

"This was the toughest possible way to win the championship," said North Carolina pilot Dean Smith. "Beating our third major North Carolina rival on successive nights... was a great accomplishment. We're delighted at the prospect of meeting Princeton again."

Rutgers' Bob Lloyd, the top foul shooter in the country, hit five free throws down the stretch in capping a 42-point effort that lifted the Scarlet Knights past taller Utah State Walker. Providence's Al America became the 23rd player in college history to top the 2,000-point career mark with his binge against Memphis State. He now has 2,009.

Overtime Win

Bob Hoover's 25-foot jump shot in the final second of overtime carried Dayton past Western Kentucky and Elvin Hayes pumped in 30 points in Houston's victory over New Mexico State.

Wyoming nailed the WAC title beating Brigham Young 70-63 in a playoff and Indiana won the Big Ten crown by drubbing Purdue 95-82.

The University of Pacific edged San Francisco 63-59 for its 20th straight victory; Kansas made it 11 in a row by defeating Kansas State 74-56 and Colorado upended NIT-bound Nebraska 64-57 in regular-season finals.

Southern Illinois and Duke share tonight's NIT bill with the Nebraska-Marshall, W.Va., valuable player, hit 21 points for quarter-final test.

Fox Valley Baseball League Future Remains Uncertain

MENASHA — The future and makeup of the Fox Valley Baseball League was still uncertain after a meeting of league representatives here Sunday.

The four teams which finished the 1966 season—Little Chute - Kimberly, Kaukauna, Two Rivers and Menasha—all were represented and indicated they would probably field teams, but most of them unbeaten Hillmen stopped Madison West 65-53 as Jim Lawinger scored 23 points and Dennis Nodoff 15, 13 of them in the final period.

Michigan State nailed down its share of the crown with a 79-66 victory over Northwestern, but sixth in the Big Ten and was seventh in the Big Ten on defense. The Hoosiers, because Michigan State had represented the conference in the playoffs more recently than Indiana.

Barron, the smallest school in the field, topped Cumberland, 57-43 behind balanced scoring by Jerry Hughes and Rick Mays. Each had 18 points.

Wausau, which will meet Barron Thursday night, got 17 points from both Ken Roeder and Larry Edwards and topped Loyal 63-53. The Lumberjacks won it with a 21 of 27 effort from the foul line. Fourteen points came on final period free throws.

Appleton, jelling after a so-so season, winged Horicon 71-56 as Tom Hintz broke open the game with five straight baskets in the third period.

Scores 23 Points

The Terrers meet Whitefish Bay Thursday night. The Dukes, won out Waterloo 63-41 as Bill Smith scored 22 points.

Whitefish Bay, coached by former Marquette University mentor, Jack Nagle, is making its Madison debut.

All the other teams have been there at least once before and besides Lincoln, three of them have been champions—Wausau in 1928, 1938 and 1960. Central in 1925, and Appleton in 1921.

Below is a capsule summary of each of the teams:

Lincoln — Clarence Sherrod, Fred Brown and Larry Thomas are back from the 1966 championship five and during the regular season helped trigger an attack that produced 103 points per game. Relentless rebounders, Lincoln took an amazing two to one board advantage over tall and quick Racine Park in the sectional finals. The Comets press tirelessly, forcing repeated opposition errors and easy baskets.

Central — the tallest team in the tournament, the Red Raiders averaged 88 points per regular season game and like Lincoln, hit with 50 per cent of their shots from the floor. Jim Nordum, 6-foot-8, is their ace. Senior Steve Flaten and sophomore John Ford are also standouts.

Green Bay West — Co-champions of the Fox River Valley Conference, West is the only team besides Lincoln back from last season's field. Dennis Gutzman, a 6-foot-2 senior, is the heart of the not particularly tall team that seldom dazzles but is always dangerous.

Platteville — The Hillmen, the only unbeaten team in Wisconsin, are led by 6-foot-1 Jim Lawinger, a record-breaking scorer who has been maintaining his 19-point-per-game average in tournament play. Platteville also has a good big man in Dennis Nodoff, a 6-foot-6 center, and Tom Barth, a 5-foot-11 defensive tiger.

Barron — In the tournament for the first time since 1930, is a balanced ball club led by Jerry Hughes, who is considered by his coach as the "best ball handler in the state of Wisconsin." The Bears rely on speed, good shooting and desire to overcome a lack of height. Five of Barron's players averaged in double figures during the season.

Wausau — Like Barron, the fifth-ranked Lumberjacks rely on balance and speed instead of height. Ken Roeder, 6-foot-3, is Wausau's key man while Frank Schade is the playmaker. Pat Reeb, a leading scorer and rebounder, returned to action in the sectional finals Saturday night after missing a string of games with an ankle injury.

Appleton — The Terrers, who knocked fourth-ranked Neenah out of the regionals, are a solid defensive team without any individual stars. George Hoffman, the leading scorer, has been averaging only 14 points a game. Appleton's opponents have managed just 49 points per game.

Whitefish Bay — Like Appleton, Whitefish Bay is strong in defense and rebounding. The seventh-ranked Dukes, lords of the Milwaukee Suburban Conference, have suffered a punch in Donn Wese, Howie Zien and Bill Smith.

Johnson-Kennedy Feud Worries Party

Bobby's Vietnam Speech Offered Nothing
New but Deepened Rift With President

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Private evidence of the havoc left by the latest clash between Lyndon B. Johnson and Robert F. Kennedy was found aboard the Caroline, the famed Kennedy family plane, somewhere between New York city and Washington last Sunday night (March 5).

The political cargo aboard the plane were U. S. senators returning from Sen. Robert

Novak
Kennedy's 500 dollar-a-plate Democratic fund-raiser in Manhattan. Neither of the Kennedy brothers was aboard.

One cluster of five senators sitting together, four of whom are up for re-election in 1968, bitterly but frankly contemplated President Johnson's impact on their own fates. Although each feels confident of running ahead of the President, each glumly forecast his own defeat next year — because of Mr. Johnson.

Kennedy Men
The gloomy senators aboard the Caroline all are associated with the Kennedy wing of the Democratic Party. As such, they support Kennedy against the President in the debate over the Vietnam war. Nevertheless, Johnson-Kennedy feud darkens the gloom suffusing the whole party.

Nor are spirits any brighter at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue. Even the moderate advisers at the White House now fear the rising feud may lead Kennedy to attempt to wrest the nomination from Mr. Johnson next year, to the ruin of both men. Though this prospect is highly unlikely, the mere fact it is being bruited about the White House is significant.

In sum, the Johnson-Kennedy feud begins to look like a bottomless morass into which Democrats of all stripes are sinking. The two contestants now seem unable to control, much less stop, the dispute so damaging to their party.

Feb. 6 Confrontation
The point of no return was the now famous Feb. 6 White House confrontation between the senator and the President after Kennedy returned from his fling at personal diplomacy in Europe. In addition to Mr. Johnson's threats of political retribution, he also flatly informed Kennedy that was the last time he would be seeing the senator from New York. That is, even the cobra-like relations of today were to end.

From that point, it was inevitable Kennedy would make public his proposal to suspend bombing of North Vietnam. In keeping with his principle that defense appropriations bills should not be used as a vehicle for peace bloc amendments, Kennedy spoke only after the Vietnam money bill had passed.

But the mere fact he publicly proposed his Vietnam plan in the headline-making March 2 speech, was by itself a sign of further deterioration in Johnson-Kennedy relations.

At one time, Kennedy hesitated to make a substantive public proposal about Vietnam because any idea coming from him would automatically preclude Mr. Johnson from accepting it. According to close associates in the Senate, when he did unveil his Vietnam plan he did so in the full knowledge that this probably would push the President in the opposite direction. Indeed, even some administration officials say sadly that the mere fact Kennedy was proposing it might inhibit the President.

Nothing Revolutionary
And yet Kennedy's speech hardly contained any revolutionary ideas. Even dove-like officials at the State Department see nothing new in it. The fact that Hanoi insists on a permanent cessation of bombing prior to negotiations makes Kennedy's bid for another temporary cessation something of a non sequitur.

However, administration officials not caught up in the LBJ-RFK feud view Kennedy's speech as far less provocative with a whirlwind of activity to counteract it. The predictable effect was just the opposite: Mr. Johnson simply dramatized Kennedy's speech himself.

Perhaps the best assessment of escalation along the LBJ-RFK front was an off-hand comment the other day to an old political friend by Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who said Humphrey, good sense flies out the window and sense flies out the window and

The Mercedes-Benz 250S: the $6400 car that steers without guessing, corners without wallowing and stops without panic.

Four of the many reasons the Mercedes-Benz 250S outperforms its $6400 rivals: a disc brake at every wheel.

At last, a $6400 car that puts efficiency above status. The 250S is no soft-sprung dreamboat. It's built to be pounded over murderous back roads, flicked through rain-slicked curves, slammed to sudden stops — all with unflappable calm. Its body is 10,000 welds tight and armored with 48 lbs. of rustproofing. Finish is impeccable; even the underside of the dash is fully trimmed. For more impressive facts, keep reading.

If you have never driven a Mercedes-Benz before, you'll find the road manners of the 250S exhilarating. This 1½-ton sedan handles very much like a sports car. It should: that fully independent, rear swing-axle suspension design beneath you first appeared on a world-championship Mercedes-Benz sports-racing car. Road grip is tenacious. With individual rear wheel springing instead of a conventional rigid beam-axle, ride is actually smoother than in those spongily sprung "luxury" cars.

Mercedes-Benz motor cars:
from $25,707* to $4,155

You may be able to afford a Mercedes-Benz without knowing it. Below are suggested retail prices* for 8 of the 15 Mercedes-Benz models:

|--------------------|----------|
| 600 Grand Mercedes | $25,707 |
| 300 SE Coupe | 11,882 |
| 230SL Roadster | 6,242 |
| 250S Sedan | 5,955 |
| 230S Sedan | 4,988 |
| 230 Sedan | 4,357 |
| 200 Diesel Sedan | 4,382 |
| 200 Sedan | 4,155 |

*Midwest port of entry, exclusive of transportation charges, options, state and local taxes if any.

One reason: Before installation, this suspension's four coil springs undergo 16 tests to ensure that each is perfectly tuned to the others.

You maneuver the 250S with a knife-sharp, recirculating-ball steering mechanism. It doesn't require endless tugs at the wheel to merely turn a corner. In fact, the wheel turns only 3¼ times, full-left to full-right. Fitted into the steering system is an ingenious miniature shock-absorber, to reduce pummeling on washboard roads.

Incredible stopping power

Not even a 150-mph sports car stops quicker or smoother than the 250S.

While front disc brakes are just now appearing on many luxury cars, your 250S employs disc brakes at all four wheels.

This superior stopping system throws off heat instead of storing it up as in drum brakes. Fade—the menace of brakes suddenly "going soft"—is almost eliminated.

Tires: Your 250S is shod with 4-ply, 7.35x14-inch tires at the factory as standard equipment. Terms such as "premium" or "super-premium" are virtually meaningless, but here is reassurance: these tires have been tested—and found safe—in steady 100-mph cruising, with full passenger and trunk loads, and running at normal air pressures.

Make it a fivesome

The 250S provides capacious space for five adults and 25 cubic feet of their luggage in the trunk. But many other cars do as well. The genius of the 250S is that it offers this generous room while measuring a full two feet shorter overall than its major $6400 rivals. Mercedes-Benz efficiency triumphs again. You'll appreciate it the first time you have to park in close quarters.

You'll lack for nothing in terms of comfort in the 250S. "The seats are the equal of any in the world," writes the Publisher of Car and Driver. The backs of both front seats recline. By simply clicking a lever, the driver can raise or lower his position. No complex power mechanisms needed.

Showroom snoopers

Note that flawless finish. The underside of the dash is fully trimmed. The glovebox interior isn't just a stapled cardboard box. Small strips of hand-fitted walnut adorn the insides of the side window frames.

You're likely to be still enjoying this comfort a decade from now. That "unit" body is made up of steel panels up to 1 millimeter thick, welded in 10,000 places, completely primer-coated, slathered with 24 pounds of plasticized undercoat, and painted three times.

Thump the roof and your confidence is complete. It feels like banging your fist on a granite block.

A word on safety

Mercedes-Benz has received wide-spread publicity on its safety engineering achievements over the past several years.

Work continues to make Mercedes-Benz cars even safer, both in avoiding trouble, and in protecting you if trouble should occur.

For sane drivers, Mercedes-Benz cars can help reduce the hazards of driving—without dulling its pleasures.

But however well engineered it may be, no car can entirely defend against the show-off, the drunkard, or the neurotic bent on self-destruction. Safety depends on you, too.

Going to Europe?

You can order your 250S here, pick it up while on vacation in Europe, enjoy the convenience of private motoring abroad—then bring it home when you return. Having your own car in Europe is a guarantee of greater enjoyment. No crowded buses, no awkward train schedules. And by arranging overseas delivery, you stand to save hundreds of dollars. Asked if he had any message for the world, he said simply, "Let there be peace."

Molotov was virtually ignored as he voted at a polling place near the Kremlin. Once Stalin's right-hand man, Molotov was premier in 1930-31 and foreign minister in 1939-49 and again in 1953-56. Khrushchev ousted him 10 years ago.

Molotov, 77, smiled thinly and walked slowly. He wore his customary rimless glasses, a hat, white muffer and gray coat, and was accompanied by his wife.

Both Molotov and Khrushchev voted for Khrushchev's successor as premier, Alexei N. Kosygin, who was running for the Parliament of the Russian Federation.

$12.2 Billion In War Costs Given Okay

House Committee Cuts LBJ Request By $62.5 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war in Vietnam got a $12.2 billion shot in the arm today from the House Appropriations Committee, which said there is "no reasonable likelihood" that the fighting will end by June 30.

The appropriation, subject to action by the House Thursday and by the Senate probably next week, is for use during the remaining months of the fiscal year ending June 30.

The amount is $62.5 million less than President Johnson requested, but none of the cut was applied to major weapon programs.

More than half the total, $6.25 billion, was earmarked for procurement of airplanes, munitions, vehicles and communication.

Keshena Man Dies in Crash

Joseph Warrington Was Official in Wolf Plan Group

Post-Crescent News Service
Joseph A. Warrington, 62, Keshena, died at 6:30 a.m. Sunday at Shawano Community Hospital of injuries sustained 4½ hours earlier when his panel truck struck the rear of a car on state 47 about four miles north of Keshena.

Warrington had been employed by the Bureau of Indian Affairs before termination of the Menominee reservation status. He was an electrician and did maintenance work on the reservation.

At the time of his death, he was a member of the Menominee County Committee of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission and was active in many conservation activities.

His death was one of four in the state over the weekend, raising the year's count to 124, compared with 161 on this date a year ago.

Richard Hemlock, 19, of Whitewater was injured fatally Sunday night when a car overturned and struck a barn after leaving Highway 12 about a mile south of Fort Atkinson.

Robert E. Schultz, 19, of West Bend died Sunday night when his car struck a tree beside a rural road near West Bend.

Eau Claire County Judge

Knowles Appoints Court Justice

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Connor T. Hansen, Eau Claire County judge for the last 10 years and lifelong Republican, today was chosen by Gov. Warren P. Knowles to succeed Justice Myron Gordon as a member of the State Supreme Court.

Gordon, a Democrat, has been named to a federal district judgeship.

Hansen, 52, is a University of Wisconsin Law School graduate and has been elected to the county bench twice since his original appointment by former Gov. Vernon W. Thomson 10 years ago.

He was one of the judges and lawyers suggested as qualified for the appointment by the Judicial Selection Committee of the State Bar of Wisconsin two weeks ago.

Knowles said the appointment put on the state's highest bench, for the first time in many years, a man with probate court experience. He did not mention the fact publicly, but it also was known that he had been interested in appointing a new court member from upper Wisconsin, which has had sparse representation lately.

Hansen has been district attorney of his home county and before his elevation to the bench was active in Republican affairs.

Knowles also named Thomas Barland, 37, widely known former Eau Claire County assemblyman, as county judge to succeed Hansen.

Hansen will be required to run for election in 1970 for a 10-year term to begin the following year.

Knowles said the selection for the state court was "most difficult" because of the quality of the nominees advanced by the bar for the appointment.

President To Leave Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will leave late Saturday for Guam to attend top-level meetings with United States officials on the war in Vietnam. The White House announced Saturday night. He is expected to arrive Monday, Guam time.

The strategy huddle, though not expected to include South Vietnam Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, is regarded as another attempt to dramatize the U.S. military and civil development to Ky's war-torn country.

Ky attended Johnson's last two Pacific conclaves — at Honolulu in February 1966 and at Manila last October.

But sources indicated the Guam session, announced Saturday, will include South Vietnam Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Ambassador to Saigon, Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William Westmoreland, commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam.

Johnson is to leave Saturday and arrive early Monday Guam time.

George Christian, White House press secretary, said the meetings are expected to last "a short time — a few days at the most."

It is not expected that any major change in U.S. policy will come out of the meeting, but that emphasis will be placed on slowly increasing military pressure and intensifying attempts giving up the support of the white people. This, it was said, would make him an even bigger hero in the Negro community.

Likely also to be discussed are changes some have proposed to strengthen Westmoreland's command along the lines was a statement by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King said in Hartford, Conn., Sunday night that Meredith's campaign against Powell in the Harlem is ill-timed. King said past few days by stepped up that it would be much better for ground action and air strikes the House to seat Powell again against North Vietnam's principle because of what he termed pal steel mill. Gaullists Squeeze by With Narrow Majority

PARIS (AP) — French voters at least one in the full Assembly, mauled the prestige of President Charles de Gaulle's government badly Sunday and left the Gaullists had won only 243 only one to three votes in the seats, while the combined opposition had 241 or 242, French political experts varied in their assessment of the situation.

The Gaullists had a solid 40-seat majority in the outgoing National Assembly.

The President's personal tenure was not affected, he having been elected in 1965 for a seven-year term. But whether De Gaulle will have a "governable" assembly will apparently hinge on a bloc of at least 30 and possible 42 seats controlled by Jean Lecanuet's Center Democrats. Lecanuet indicated before the

Brillion Church Society Has 75th Anniversary

BRILLION — The 75th anniversary of the St. Mary Christian Mothers Society was commemorated at the group's meeting last week when Mrs. Edward Schlies and Mrs. Robert Brunner discussed highlights of activities of its early years.

The society was chartered in April, 1892, and was the 147th of the present 3,060 organizations affiliated in the United States. A congratulatory note from the Archconfraternity of Christian Mothers Societies, Pittsburgh, was read at the meeting.

Mrs. Norbert Geiger, rural life committee chairman, reported that the Rural Life Conference will be March 30 at Chilton.

Representatives of the local society attended the safety, health and welfare committee meetings at St. Mary, Chilton.

Bus Proposal

The committee was set up in February to back passage of the April 4 referendum concerning parochial school children riding public school buses. The group contends that transportation of all students for their "safety, health, and welfare" is constitutional. Vincent Reinkober, Chilton, Robert Mayer, Kiel, and Mrs. Robert Ambrosius, Brillion, head the committee.

Brillion society members will be participating in the telephone campaign to urge passage of the bill. Bumper stickers and leaflets concerning the bill are being distributed in the area, it was reported.

Fantastic Laser Poses Problems

BY FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some danger signals are flashing in the pathway of the laser, perhaps the most powerful form of light in the universe.

But the laser, developed only six years ago, is already finding hundreds of uses in industry, medicine, military operations and space flight.

Some of the problem areas:

—One scientist said treating cancer with lasers might cause the cancer to spread. Another scientist said he had treated 100 cancer cases and never seen such effects.

—Warnings of "instant blindness" from looking directly at laser beams. This might apply to high school students using make-it-yourself laser kits, or to soldiers exposed to laser beams from artillery range-finders.

Possible Uses

Some of the uses, present or under study, range from tracking satellites to helping lay sewer pipes, from removing warts and tattoos to punching radio holes in diamonds and from detecting art frauds to turning artillery range finders more accurate than radar.

New ideas for potential uses include:

Detecting poison gas, illuminating targets on a battlefield at night, tracking enemy missiles, lighting tunnels.

Helping make new chemical products from coal, slicing chromosomes within living cells, much like a meatcutter slices baloney. Carrying millions of telephone conversations literally on the wings of light, peering into ocean depths to find wrecked submarines and perhaps sunken treasure, mapping the moon and the planets.

And an Army researcher told with pencils of light shot from a reporter: "With the types of laser we have today, the only uses by harmlessly vaporizing conceivable use as a weapon: a silver of human tissue and would be against the eye, and analyzing the "smoke" target be looking directly at the beam, or very nearly so.

Possible Weapon
"However, we are working on more powerful lasers which installations throughout the may have potential as weapons. Lasers have become to affect other areas of the human body."

Research and development employing lasers is going on in hundreds of industrial laboratories, universities and military installations throughout the country. Lasers have become to affect other areas of the human body."

Estimates are that the sale of lasers—from hand-held models to 60-foot-long monsters—will be $150 million in 1967, and cause the eye—equipped with a lens—can further focus the power of the beam.

Dr. William T. Ham Jr., of the Medical College of Virginia told newsmen that laser beams "lay-zer"—is an acronym for "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation." In brief, a laser is a device for generating an intense more than a mile's range from nondiffusing beam of visible or invisible light.

One Wavelength

Laser beams contrast sharply with waves of ordinary light, or with radio waves, which spread in all directions. Laser beams are made up of essentially of only one wavelength, and all the waves of a given beam move in step and in one direction—like soldiers in a marching column. Therein lies the secret of the laser's enormous power.

Outside a laboratory in Maryland, a few nights each month, scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration are carrying on pioneering experiments aimed at developing a deep space communications system employing lasers.

They are using laser beams to track several of the Explorer satellites—at ranges up to nearly 1,000 miles. And they say the probing laser beams—made to echo off the satellites—can pinpoint the position of a given spacecraft to within three feet. That's 10 times the accuracy achievable with either radar or radio.

Tracking System

The researchers say an accurate tracking system—employing lasers—is a necessary prelude to any use of such beams for deep space communications, such as from the neighborhood of the planet Mars.

As regards military use of lasers as a sort of ray gun, Brig. Gen. Ernest A. Pinson, commander of the Air Force Office of Aerospace Research

"We're looking into it, but at the present time I do not see, any specific (antipersonnel) weapons applications of the laser. That isn't to say there isn't perhaps sunken treasure, mapping the moon and the planets.

such a laser light source, he said.

Scientists of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology are trying to define safe limits of laser radiation exposure for various parts of the body. Some of their findings are dramatic.

They have found, for example, that laser beams of comparatively low energies, if directed at the exposed scalp of a guinea pig, can actually cause the creature's brain to explode. This results from water in the living tissue being converted to high pressure steam by the heat from the laser radiation.

British Firm to Print World's Biggest Book

LONDON (AP)—Mansell Information-Publishing Ltd. of Britain announced today it has won a $12-million contract from the American Library Association to print "the biggest book to be published since the invention of printing."

The book will contain the national union catalog of the United States, which is contained now on 16-million index cards at the Library of Congress in Washington. The book will run to 610 volumes, each of 704 pages, and will weigh 1½ tons when finished in about 10 years.

A complete set will cost between $8,000 and $9,000. The Library of Congress cards list details of every book held by more than 2,000 major libraries in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

A spokesman for the publisher said they expect to sell at least 1,500 volumes.

Too Half-Hearted
He didn't like that word "should," he felt. He scratched it out and wrote in "must."

Then, 20 years ago Sunday the President, Harry S. Truman, read to Congress a message, which asked $400 million in economic aid to Greece and Turkey and changed American foreign policy.

Isolationism was abandoned and the United States, assuming leadership of the non-Communist world, undertook commitments that involved it around the globe, and still do, in economic aid and even war. The latest example of both is Vietnam, where President Johnson repeatedly has said American involvement is for the sake of American national security.

Turkey, Greece
At that time in 1947, when the Truman doctrine was first stated, Moscow was pressuring Turkey and Greece was near collapse under the onslaughts of Communist guerrillas. Truman's decision was not something long thought out.

It was sudden, made necessary when Britain, weakened by World War II, informed this country on Feb. 21 it couldn't even help Greece any further. There was no time to waste.

With the help of his top advisors, Truman made his decision, one of the most important in American history, got his message written and read it to Congress by March 12.

But in 1947 the full implications of the Truman doctrine were not as clear as later. At that time the Soviet Union was the only great danger. It wasn't until two years later that the Communists took over China.

Marshall Plan
In the beginning American policy sought to "contain" the Soviets. The Truman Doctrine was followed quickly by the Marshall Plan of economic aid when arranged before Ray-for Europe and then by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the military alliance to $15.

LaBorde was arrested March 13, 1967.

California Democrats Eye Sandy Koufax, Greg Peck for Senate

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Gregory Peck and retired Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Sandy Koufax are being mentioned as dark horse candidates for the Democrats' U. S. Senate nomination in California next year.

The pair was named along with former Gov. Edmund G. Brown, in a television interview Sunday with national committeeman Eugene I. Wyman. Senior Sen. Thomas R. Kuchel, a Republican, comes up for re-election next year.

California already has former actors in politics—Ronald Reagan as governor and George Murphy as junior U. S. senator.

Use of 'Must' Has Changed Foreign Policy

Truman Doctrine Made It U. S. Duty to Keep Nations Free

WASHINGTON (AP)—The words "should" and "must" made and make a lot of difference.

The President asked the State Department to draft the message he wanted to read to Congress. He thought the first draft was too wishy-washy. He sent it back. Then he got the second version.

It said letting communism gobble up one country after another would jeopardize this country's national security by endangering world peace and weakening other still-free countries to resist.

The President thought this was the key sentence: "I believe it should be the policy of the United States to support free peoples who are resisting attempted subjugation by armed minorities or outside pressures."

Dems Push Higher Aids for School Districts

Twin Cities Could Receive More Funds, Dem Chairman Says

NEENAH-MENASHA — Neenah School District would receive $272,309 more in state school aids for the 1968-69 school year than it did for the 1966-67 year if a proposed revised state aids formula bill is passed, according to J. Louis Hansen, state chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic party.

The figures for Neenah, and other Twin Cities area districts, were contained in a letter sent to school board members urging them to attend a public hearing on the identical Senate and Assembly bills on Wednesday in Madison.

Hansen, in the letter, charged that Gov. Warren Knowles and the Republican leadership in the legislature are opposing the bills.

According to Hansen's figures, Neenah is receiving $416,518 in school aids under the present formula. If the proposed change is passed, the Neenah district would receive $548,830 for the 1967-68 fiscal year, and $668,827 for 1968-69.

The Menasha district would not be affected as much, according to Hansen. For the current year, Menasha received $152,386. In 1968-69 Menasha would get $164,918, an increase of $12,532. Omro would have an increase of $24,221 a year; Oshkosh, $335,373, and Winnebago, $37,160.

Waupaca, Clintonville Men Earn Decorations

Two Fox Valley area men have been decorated with the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal while serving stints in the service, according to reports received recently from their units.

The two honored are Capt. Ronald L. Merz, route 1, Waupaca, and Airman 1.C. James A. Eng, 66 Paulina St., Clintonville.

Merz received his award at Shaw AFB, S.C., for meritorious service as an instructor navigator. He is now chief of management analysis with the 9th Air Force Headquarters at Shaw.

Eng was decorated at a forward combat base in Southeast Asia for his achievements as weapons mechanic. The Clintonville Senior High graduate's wife, Patricia, is also of Clintonville.

Propose Dorm for UW Center at Marshfield

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A drive has started for the construction of dormitories at the University of Wisconsin's two-year centers scattered throughout the state, aided by the request of a Marshfield Assemblyman and the statement of center system Chancellor L. H. Adolffson to the UW Board of Regents.

The construction of dormitories at centers of the UW has been recommended against by the staff of the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education in a provisional master plan prepared for approval by the state's highest educational agency.

Assemblyman Raymond Heinzen, R-Marshfield, appeared before the Regents to ask that they consider constructing a 100-bed dormitory at his center.

Heinzen pointed out that a training program operated at the center, which students in a registered nurses course study for the first year at the local central and then transfer to Marshfield hospital for advanced training, has resulted in a large number of students from compensation matters and new outside of Wood County enrollment decisions, orders, and laws.

Heinzen said that such steps would aid in providing student experiences comparable to the state's four-year universities at the freshman-sophomore centers.

Heinzen said that such steps would aid in providing student experiences comparable to the state's four-year universities at the freshman-sophomore centers.

Need Backing

Heinzen said that he has approached the CCHE and the Richard Vander Heiden, chair-state Building Commission regarding his plan, and said that the township, reported collection for its operation, formal Board of Regents' backing would be required.

The dormitory would be financed through the commission and state bonding corporations, but the building would be self-financing, as student rental fees.

would eventually repay its construction cost.

Heinzen was given implied backing by Regents' president Arthur DeBardleben, who pointed out the Marshfield Center has grown rapidly in recent years and is the only UW higher educational opportunity in north central and northwestern Wisconsin.

Adolffson said dormitories for some of UW's 11 centers is a future aim of the center system.

He said that enabling students from other areas of the state and world to study in local areas would "diversify the student bodies in the interest of an enriched, more cosmopolitan educational experience."

The Center System also seeks to increase the percentage of out-of-state and foreign students enrolled in the centers to the extent that narrow provincialism can be avoided without denying attendance to qualified Wisconsin youth," he said.

He said that such steps would aid in providing student experiences comparable to the state's four-year universities at the freshman-sophomore centers.

Planning Aide Picked for New UW-GB

Regents Approve Appointment of Russell E. White

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — University of Wisconsin Chancellor Edward W. Weidner has chosen a Lexington, Ky., neighbor as his chief assistant in planning the development of the new Brown County campus.

The appointment of Russell E. White, vice president for business affairs at Transylvania College in the Kentucky city, which Weidner just left to join formally the UW staff, has been approved by the UW Board of Regents.

White will serve as the principal aide to Weidner in planning the development of the new school, and will head the work to combine the Marinette, Fox Valley and Manitowoc two-year centers into the four campus UW-GB.

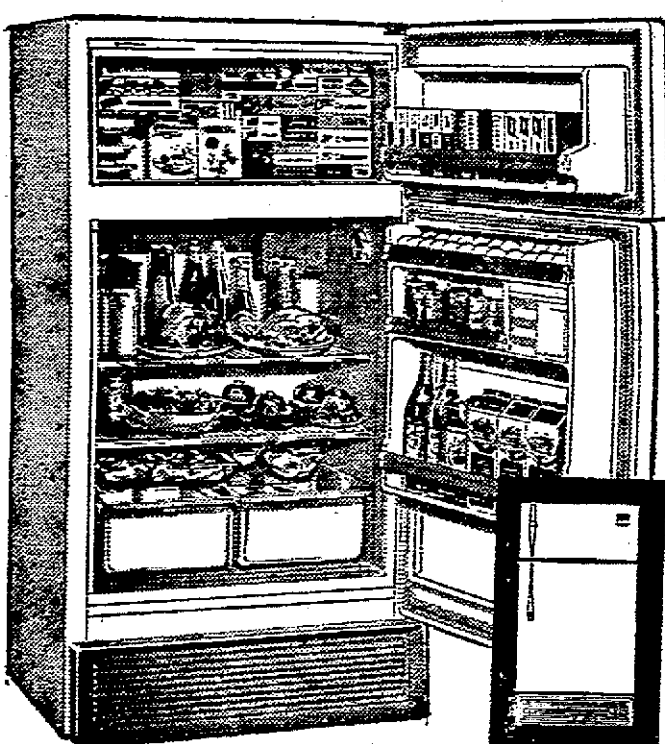

The UW-GB administration will assume administrative responsibility for the existing two-year centers in the area on July 1, 1968.

Plans call for closing the center in Green Bay in 1970, but the remaining three centers will continue operating in what Weidner terms a "four campus university."

White will be in charge of planning and construction and financial and development activities for the new campus complex.

to residents for the manner in which they received the volunteer workers.

To Your Good Health

Pyelonephritis Patient Referred to Her Doctor

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I noticed blood in my urine and was sent to a kidney specialist who took X-rays and found that I have minor pyelonephritis on the right side, and a cystocele.

He advised me to drink a lot of water, so I drink about eight glasses a day. Is this enough? What does cystocele mean? Is it serious? — Mrs. J. S.

That probably is enough water — but the proper person to ask cele is not difficult, and having it done is one good means of protecting the kidneys. For a fuller discussion of this whole problem, I suggest reading the newest of my booklets, which is ready for distribution this week. It is called "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About Them." It actually covers the rest of the urinary system as well as the kidneys.

To get a copy, send 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me (Dr. Molner) in care of this paper.

It explains how such disorders are discovered and treated, and unscrambles the meanings of technical terms. Kidney and bladder disease is so common that I felt that such a booklet might be of considerable value to people who either have such trouble or want to avoid it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like to answer Mrs. D. L. and her 43 club members. I had a complete hysterectomy last June. I have enjoyed sexual life more since the operation than in many years. — Mrs. M. S.

You confirm what I have said before. Such an operation does not prevent sexual activity nor satisfaction. However, the psychological element is so powerful that many women, incorrectly told that they cannot enjoy such activity any more, fall victim to being misinformed.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for a 19-year-old male to become sterile? Can it be cured? — G.S.

Possible, yes, but not very common. Mumps is a frequent cause. Otherwise, whether it can be corrected depends on the cause.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain the difference between adult rheumatic fever and arthritis? — M.D.L.

Arthritis (there are various kinds) is an affliction of the joints, pain, stiffness, sometimes swelling and deformity.

Rheumatic fever (whether in childhood or adulthood) is a disease caused by streptococcus infection. It is quite common for some of the joints to become inflamed, but that is a byproduct of the disease, not its main danger.

The disease inflames tissues other than in the joints, too, and the most dangerous area is the heart. Scar tissue can occur, interfering with proper action of the heart valves.

In short: Rheumatic fever may cause "rheumatic" pain in the joints, temporarily, but that isn't its main effect.

Arthritis is specifically an ailment of the joints and does not afflict the heart.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease of young people. To learn more about it, send for my booklet, "Mononucleosis," enclosing with your request a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. (Copyright, 1967)

Queen's Man To be Named For Canada

Representative Will Replace Georges Vanier

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson will recommend the new governor general of Canada.

The job is that of representing Queen Elizabeth II in Canada. The queen makes the appointment, but on the advice of the prime minister.

The opening was created by the death last weekend of Georges P. Vanier. Vanier and his predecessor, Vincent Massey, were the first Canadian-born governors. While there is nothing to prevent the appointment of someone from Britain or elsewhere in the Commonwealth, it is generally assumed that a native Canadian will be chosen.

The job is largely ceremonial, but in government crises the governor general can be an important figure. He can move in forthrightly, for instance, in resolving a dispute that might result if one of the major parties was unable to command a majority in the House of Commons and form a government after an election.

Key Figure in Smuggling Ring Keeping Silence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coy and brown-eyed little Dennis — central figure in a government crackdown on an alleged international orangutan smuggling ring — held a news conference recently at the National Zoo.

Dennis looked wise but didn't say a word for a crowd of television crewmen, photographers and reporters. But he did his bit by stealing a ball-point pen from his keeper's pocket.

The 27-pound orangutan, a male about 2½ years old, is worth almost $4,000.

Dennis, shipped from Thailand and was destined for a pet shop in a Southern state, was seized by agents of the Interior Department and the Customs Bureau at Dulles International Airport near here Feb. 25. It is the first of the species, sent without an export license, to be seized in this country.

Lakes Commission To be Chartered in Ceremony in April

MADISON (AP) — Federal and state officials will participate in a formal signing of the charter and bylaws of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission in Madison April 11.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles announced recently that Gov. George Romney of Michigan, Gov. Harold LeVander of Minnesota and Thomas Francis, federal government representative will meet with him that day. Knowles is co-chairman of the commission and set the signing date.

The 1965 Congress created the commission. It represents 20 northern counties of Wisconsin and portions of Minnesota and Michigan. It was established to set up economic development programs.

U. S. Hits Hard In N. Vietnam

was the busiest day in the air war since Nov. 8.

One American jet was lost during the day and its two-man crew was reported missing. It was an RF4C Phantom reconnaissance plane which evidently went in after the raids.

One Soviet-designed MIG was sighted by the American pilots but it made no firing passes.

U.S. spokesmen also reported sharp ground battles Sunday in the vital central highlands and an unusually high number of guerrilla attacks against isolated outposts. The ground action reflected apparent Communist determination to concentrate on hit-and-run assaults to increase allied casualties.

Heavy Weather

The Air Force spokesman said that heavy weather closed in on the Hanoi area just after the big American strikes. Most of the other Air Force, Navy and Marine strikes during the day fell on supply lines down the southern coast.

One flight of planes coming off the Viet Tri power plant raid, with their bombs all gone, lunched on a convoy of 50 trucks. The flight flashed down with 20mm cannon blazing and left many trucks aflame, a spokesman said.

With the weather over North Vietnam beginning to clear, near perfect flying weather is expected most days within the next month. The heavy raids Sunday seemed a clear signal to the Hanoi regime that as the weather clears, the bombing will increase.

Thailand Fields

It is also expected that the B52s, which now fly 5,000 miles round trip from Guam for raids in South Vietnam, will soon be using the closer fields in Thailand.

The bombers, each carrying some 60,000 pounds of explosives, struck suspected Viet Cong concentration sites in the south with three raids Sunday and Monday. Three or four raids a day has become normal for the big bombers from Guam, but this could easily be increased by using Thai bases.

The heaviest concentration of ground fighting involving Americans took place in Kontum Province in the central highlands. In a series of actions Sunday five Americans were killed,

1,000 at Stout Hear Rockwell

MENOMONIE, Wis. (AP) — George Lincoln Rockwell, U.S. Nazi Party leader, spoke without incident Sunday at Stout State University before leaving for Waukesha to help launch a lecture series today.

Rockwell, addressing about 1,000 students and faculty members in the Stout fieldhouse, said he was "pleased to be here."

U.S. 4th Infantry Division troops were reported today pursuing possibly 1,000 Reds with whom they had fought a series of skirmishes over a period of 18 hours. The U.S. infantrymen have found 29 dead North Vietnamese soldiers and uncovered a large base camp defended by 35 bunkers.

Chinese Troops Kill 'Thousands'

HONG KONG (AP) — Several thousand people were killed or wounded in rural areas of Kwangtung Province when Communist troops opened fire on workers and peasants who refused to go back to work, a Hong Kong newspaper reported today.

The most severe clashes, the paper said, occurred in Faishan and Nang Hai where workers and farmers refused to go back to "the production line."

The paper said 300,000 troops are now in Kwangtung Province, and many people in Canton expect the number to be doubled shortly to "put down the rebellious workers and peasants."

Captors Hope Killer Whales Can be Happy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Can two killer whales find happiness in California captivity? An infant 8-foot female and a young 13-foot male are undergoing tests at the San Diego Sea World Aquarium to which they were shipped Saturday from Seattle, Wash.

Meredith Alters Stand On Election

"unique factors" which would cause Harlem Negroes to vote for him en masse.

Meredith, 33, admitted when he accepted the Republican offer to oppose Powell that he was laying himself open to "the fear and the scorn from fellow Negroes."

Not a single Negro political leader of either major party, or any Harlem community or national civil rights leader supported him. They said he was being used and didn't stand a chance of winning.

Only Sunday, Floyd B. McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, renewed his call for Meredith to drop out of the impending April 11 special election for Powell's seat.

Vincent F. Albano Jr., New York County Republican chairman, said:

"The Republican Party of New York County offered this nomination to Mr. Meredith in complete good faith. It was willingly, even eagerly accepted."

Albano said that despite Meredith's withdrawal, the GOP would put up an opponent against Powell.

Meeting Tonight

Meredith's nomination was to have been endorsed by the New York County Republican Committee at a meeting scheduled for tonight.

Saturday, Charles Evers, a leading civil rights spokesman in Mississippi, branded Meredith with a "victim of the system" in which political parties pit one Negro against another.

Questioned about Meredith in Providence, R.I., Evers had remarked, "Meredith is weak enough to fall for it. He just doesn't know any better."

McKissick, speaking on the WCBS-TV "Newsmakers" program, commented, "The feeling of the community is that Mr. Meredith has been used to divide the community. And I see no need for Mr. Meredith in the race."

Support of Kennedy

Powell also had received reelection blessings of two other prominent New York City Negro politicians, the just resigned Manhattan Democratic (Tammany Hall) leader C. Raymond Jones, and Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton, also a Democrat.

Powell also got the support Sunday night of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y. Kennedy, however, said he considered Meredith, who integrated the University of Mississippi in 1962, and who was shot on a southern freedom March last year, as "a great American."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, New York Republican, stopped short of a blanket endorsement of Meredith whom he called a "lively, attractive young man."

Albano said that despite Meredith's withdrawal, the GOP would put up an opponent against Powell.

Guam Chosen as Site For Talks on Vietnam claimed Sunday that U.S. planes bombed an area within Hanoi city limits.

Though opponents of the bombing have continued to call for its halt as a means of promoting peace talks, Johnson is believed disillusioned with such efforts and believes instead that the price of the war for North Vietnam must be raised.

There were more antibombing statements Sunday, with the most unique development coming at a state meeting of the California Democratic Council in Fresno.

Delegates of the volunteer organization representing 30,000 members adopted a policy statement that unless the war ends by September, the organization will oppose Johnson in 1968 California presidential primary with a slate of delegates pledged to a peace candidate.

They also shouted approval for U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's plan for peace — cessation of bombing of the North as a "prelude to immediate peace talks."

Rusk said Sunday, however, that any scaling down of the war by the South Vietnamese allies would have to be matched by the North. He said the United States is willing to hold peace talks or discuss conditions of go from Guam direct to the LBJ such talks even while the fighting continues.

Rusk said, "I think that if Ho Chi Minh (North Vietnam's president) and his senior leaders decided that they wished to make peace, they probably could do so. I don't think there is any outside power who has a completely determining voice in Hanoi, although there is some very strong influence there from Peking and also from Moscow."

Johnson and the others meeting at Guam are expected to consider economic aid, progress toward civilian government and pacification under the civil development phase of their agenda.

It is believed that the South Vietnamese people must be convinced — with these programs doing the convincing — that democracy can give them more than communism.

Johnson is also expected to discuss with Lodge the ambassador's personal plans. Johnson said Thursday "there is no truth in what I am looking for a success of bombing of the North as a 'prelude to immediate peace talks' for Lodge's departure. But he acknowledged that Lodge has discussed retirement "in due time."

Johnson, who spent Saturday night and most of Sunday at his Camp David, Md., retreat, may go from Guam direct to the LBJ Ranch in Texas for Easter weekend, one source said.

Unification Called Inevitable

Knowles Eager for Reorganization; Hesitates on Conservation Union

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles is eager to achieve a state government reorganization act in this session of the Legislature, but he is not yet sure that he wants to endorse the idea of a united state conservation agency which is causing the Legislature to balk.

on the sweeping reorganization plan brought in by the Kellett Commission. Knowles today confirmed that he will make a personal appearance before the Legislature when it returns to session, probably on April 5, to appeal for votes to support the general principles of the Kellett bill.

He will also spend the intervening period talking with administrative officials and legislators attempting to persuade them to agree on a measure of administrative simplification and a reduction in the number and variety of state agencies.

Threat To Bill

But he parried questions at a news conference this morning on the conservation reorganization quarrel that is the most dangerous threat to the bill.

The Kellett Advisory Commission's most difficult proposal, fought fiercely for weeks, would merge the State Conservation Department and the newer forces in Vietnam used about State Department of Resource Development. When the Legislature recessed for three weeks last week, the consensus was no more than a promise of consolidation of the two agencies in a future year, with further study in the interval.

Effort to Continue

The committee assumed, it said, that the military effort in Vietnam will continue "at approximately the present level." On this assumption, it ordered that Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard airlift and troop carrier groups be maintained at not less than their strength as of February 28, 1967.

Legislative Call

Knowles broadly indicated this morning that such a solution would be agreeable to him when he said, he is determined "to work out something" and recalled that the Legislature in a formal act in 1965 called for a unified management of the state resource programs.

"In the long run, it will be inevitable that we join the land, water and wildlife conservation programs," he said.

"We ought to accomplish something in this session after all the study we have given the matter," but he indicated that "something" may be less than the Kellett Advisory Commission contemplated after a year of work.

Knowles also observed that the principle resistance to his broad-scale highway safety program now before the Legislature comes from opponents of a uniform 21-year-old beer law, implied consent rules for driver licensing and the periodic re-examination of drivers.

tion items. Items scheduled for purchase include 721 fixed wing planes, 863 helicopters and spare parts for planes and vehicles.

The committee headed by Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said that during the last three months of 1966, U.S. and allied forces in Vietnam used about one million rounds of artillery fire, 700,000 rounds of mortar ammunition and 110 million rounds of small arms ammunition per month. The Navy fired an average of 36 thousand rounds of large gun ammunition per month.

The bill includes $624.5 million for military construction programs in Southeast Asia, $620 million to support Vietnamese and other free world forces, $1.36 billion for pay and maintenance of military personnel, $3.29 billion for operation and maintenance and $109.5 million for research, development and testing.

Construction items include $108.5 million for Thailand, $397.1 million for Vietnam and $16.2 million for the Philippines.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

No, say some commentators, not even the small minority who attended the best universities of their times. They learned much, it is true, about the history and traditions of their past although even then they lacked the conceptual tools to interpret the facts adequately. They knew almost nothing about the living present of which they were part. And only rarely was there any attempt to probe into the future.

Does climate affect people's character?

Yes—
No—
Yes, it apparently does. People who live in very warm climates tend to move at a slower rate, and to be less industrious than do those who live in the world's temperate zones. Nomads who live in parts of the world too arid to raise good crops wander about with their flocks and develop quite a different kind of personality than do the people in a more favorable climate. Character depends upon the total environment of a people, as well as upon native inheritance.

Should you worry if your baby doesn't walk as soon as your neighbor's baby does?

Yes—
No—
No. Your baby will walk when he is ready to walk. His back and leg muscles must be mature enough to support him before he can take a step. He must want enough to have the courage to step off by himself. This takes time and differs greatly from one child to another. Just because your neighbor's youngster walks at an earlier age than yours does is no reason to feel inferior or to worry about your baby's development. Ask your doctor; he'll tell you.

HOW DO YOU EXPLAIN PREGNANCY TO A CHILD?

How do you satisfy a child's curiosity when he says, "Mommy, why are you getting so fat?" The solution is simple. Send for "How to Tell Your Child About Sex," written easy-to-read, everyday language, this booklet is a must for every "expecting" family. It's yours for 25 cents and your name and address (including ZIP Code), sent to "Let's Explore Your Mind," in care of The Post-Crescent.

Couples With Children Find Divorce Difficult to Secure

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — Divorces don't come easily in Milwaukee County—especially if there are children involved.

A Fox Valley judge, familiar with Milwaukee County Family Court, established in 1935, is the second oldest court of its kind in the nation. Primary because Milwaukee County has many curves in the road County is by far the largest to final divorce in Milwaukee County in the state, its government, established short residential agency setup and functions in a near-by county differing considerably from where their divorces would go other Wisconsin counties. And through faster.

Milwaukee Circuit Judge Robert W. Hansen said that on a level, 30 per cent of all five family court commissioners' divorce actions are dropped—all attorneys—headed by Judge before the decree, while in Milwaukee, M. Syman. There are two before the figure is 48 per cent—circuit judges serving full time, and most of those involved in the family court division, families with children.

The Milwaukee seven-year duties between the family court average of divorce dismissals is and the children's court. believed to be the highest of any. Unlike most smaller counties, major American city.

In 1966 there were 3,442 conciliation department, actions started in Milwaukee signed to the Family Court. It County Family Court—a division has a staff of 12 caseworkers, of circuit court—including 2,964 There also is an active family divorce, 354 legal separations court advisory board which end 78 annulments. Final reviews and suggests improve-

Judgements included 1,551 divorces, 200 legal separations and 79 annulments. There was an overall decrease of 118 cases from 1955.

Family Court
The Milwaukee County Family Court is big—but not too big to ignore. "The children of divorce." It is probably best known for its policy of appointing guardian ad litem (attorneys) to represent the interests of children.

The program, propagated under the program and planning by Circuit Judges Hansen and Leander J. Foley Jr., is based on the philosophy that children often are little more than "pawns" in divorce actions.

Writing in the March issue of Reader's Digest, Judge Hansen stated, "What appeals me about divorce is how frequently it makes of children little more than negotiable debris from the wreck of the marriage. Not much different from the hi-fi or the family car."

In an interview last week, Judge Hansen said guardian ad litem are appointed in about 15 to 20 per cent of the Milwaukee divorce cases involving minor children.

In most cases the appointment of a guardian ad litem is on the recommendation of the family court commissioner, who has initial contact in all divorce actions. However, many times, either or both of the attorneys for the parents request a guardian ad litem.

The court - appointed attorney, usually paid for by the steps in where there is a bitterly contested custody or visitation dispute, where the welfare of the children appears in jeopardy, where there is suspicion of mental illness, moral misconduct or other suspected incapacities on the part of the proposed custodian, or where it would appear in the best interests of the children to allow them to share in division of property in a divorce settlement.

The guardian ad litem, whose normal fee is about $100, but who often serves gratis if there is not enough money to go around, has the same status in a divorce action as do the attorneys for the mother and father.

He can subpoena and present testimony of witnesses. He can cross examine. In the end, he is asked to make a statement or recommendation on behalf of the children. And, according to experiences in the three and a half years the guardian system has been in operation in Milwaukee County, his recommendations normally carry a lot of weight.

Younger Attorneys

Hansen said it has been his practice to appoint younger attorneys to represent the children because he feels they are able to devote more time and do a more thorough job. Judge Foley normally names veteran attorneys.

Judge Hansen said the guardian ad litem plan, endorsed by the state Supreme Court, has been well accepted by the parties to a divorce action and by the attorneys. The guardian often plays the role of mediator and in many instances has been effective to the point where almost a complete agreement over the rights of the children has been reached when the cases come up for final court action.

"There are few instances where the parents intentionally wish to ignore the rights and wishes of their children," Judge Hansen explained, but he indicated that traditionally, there just has not been enough thought given to them. Usually, the only concern by the mother and the father is for themselves.

Judge Hansen sees the appointment of a guardian ad litem as "... an affirmative step to insure that the child is treated as a person with rights, not as an object to be fought over."

Unique Discovery Now Makes It Possible To Shrink Hemorrhoids Without Surgery
...Except In Unusually Severe Or Persistent Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): A well-known research institution has discovered a substance which has the ability to actually shrink hemorrhoids without surgery except in unusually severe or persistent cases.

In case after case the sufferer first notices relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance starts right in to gently reduce the swelling. Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, a Southern Clinic and a Midwest Medical Center all proved this so.

The secret is this special substance (Bio-Dyne®)—now offered in both suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. In addition to actually shrinking piles—Preparation H lubricates and makes bowel movements more comfortable, and soothes irritated tissues. It also helps prevent further infection (a principal cause of hemorrhoids).

Only Preparation H contains this substance. No prescription is needed.
